

61 charges brought in morals case

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — A Boy Scout outing and other incidents involving "a vast number of small boys" have led to the arrests of several men on moral charges.

Dist. Atty. Richard McConnell said a fifth man was being sought, but that he was believed to be out of the state.

McConnell said arrests stem from an investigation of the death of Robert M. Jones, Waukesha Memorial Hospital administrator, a bachelor at whose home several youths were allegedly victimized during a May scouting campout.

Jones, 49, was found dead July 5 of carbon monoxide poisoning in the garage of his home in rural Genesee. His death was ruled a suicide.

McConnell said Jones led a dual life as respected civic figure and homosexual, and that his private life involved "contamination of many small boys."

There were 61 counts against the men, McConnell said. None of the boys would be referred to juvenile court because they are considered victims of adult misbehavior, the district attorney said.

Bond was set Tuesday at up to $15,000 each for the four men who appeared in Waukesha County Court.

McConnell said Fred Fohey, 32, of Pewaukee was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor and exhibiting an obscene film to a child.

Jack Keating, 32, of Genesee, McConnell said, was named in 16 misdemeanor counts of contributing to delinquency, and seven felony counts of taking indecent liberties with a child.

Patrick Prudlow, 29, Pewaukee, was named in 13 counts of indecent liberties, a count of sexual perversion with a consenting adult, and three misdemeanor counts of contributing to delinquency.

Dean Slater, 35, was named in seven felony counts of indecent liberties, and one misdemeanor count of contributing to delinquency.

McConnell said there were several incidents in the past year, and that many stem from the scout outing May 17-19 at Jones' home.

Complaints cite 16 alleged incidents involving 14 boys at the campout.

He said the John Doe investigation of Jones' death ended Monday after questioning of 25 witnesses, many of them juveniles.

"He was a respected member of the community," McConnell said. "I respected him as a professional. Even many of his closest friends, I'm sure, will be shocked to learn of this dual life."

McConnell said Jones reportedly supplied beer and liquor at the May outing, and that some of the boys became ill.

Prudlow and Keating were identified as Boy Scout leaders.

FAYETTE, Miss. (AP) — Mayor Charles Evers, who often had government support in his battles for civil rights for blacks, is now preparing to defend himself on federal income tax charges.

"I will repeat that I haven't done anything wrong," Evers said Tuesday after he and his former wife, Nannie Laura Evers of Jackson, Miss., were indicted on charges of tax evasion.

The federal indictment alleges that for the years 1968, 1969 and 1970, Evers paid $3,644 in taxes when he should have paid $56,237. The indictments said his three year income was $179,556, instead of the $20,219 reported.

Evers' former wife, from whom he was divorced this summer, was named in the indictments for the 1968 and 1969 returns. Evers is the lone defendant in the indictment for 1970.

The indictments say that in 1968 the couple paid $1,216 in taxes on reported income of $6,688 but owed $10,833 on alleged income of $50,456; that in 1969 they paid $1,170 on reported income of $6,334 but owed $22,599 on alleged income of $67,388; and that in 1970 Evers paid $1,258 on reported income of $7,197 while owing $22,805 on alleged income of $61,712.

The indictment did not specify the source of Evers' income. He operates a small shopping center and a motel and adjacent lounge in Fayette.

The maximum penalty on each count of tax evasion is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

A civil rights activist since the ambush slaying of his brother, Medgar, at Jackson 11 years ago, Evers had strong government support in the equal rights struggles of the 1960s.

The government provided voter registrars for blacks and sent FBI and Justice Department agents to curb racial violence. Federal agents twice were involved in arrests of persons who allegedly threatened Evers' life.

Evers, 52, was elected mayor of Fayette in 1969, becoming the first black mayor of a biracial Mississippi town. He was re-elected last year, after an unsuccessful gubernatorial race in 1971.

paying off '70 debts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is still paying off debts from his 1970 Senate campaign, according to a tardy report filed with the Senate.

Kennedy's campaign treasurer, Clifford J. Shaw, said in a telephone interview that a two-year delay in filing required reports had been caused by misinterpretation of the federal campaign finance law. Shaw added that full disclosure had been made in reports filed on the state level.

Shaw said the Massachusetts Democrat had ended his 1970 Senate race owing about $40,000 for telephone bills and other expenses. The debts were paid by borrowing money from a few friends.

Kennedy delayed raising money to pay off the borrowings so as not to create the impression that he was preparing for a presidential campaign, Shaw said.

Finally, after a family crisis caused by his son's loss of a leg to bone cancer last year, Kennedy said "Let's get this thing off our necks," Shaw recalled.

According to the Senate report, filed last Friday, Kennedy raised some $38,000 at a lavish dinner party held at his home in McLean, Va., Feb. 4.

Most of the guests were well-to-do Massachusetts residents. The affair featured limousine service, a heated tent, an orchestra, $2,718 worth of food and drink from one of the capital's catering firms, $214 worth of seating charts, $1,305 worth of flowers, and $767 worth of decorations.

The report said the proceeds went mainly to pay off debts, including interest, of $10,433 to R. D. Fitzgerald, a Kennedy cousin who is president of Boston's Harbor National Bank; $9,964 to Gerard Doherty, a Boston lawyer and close Kennedy associate, and $9,789 to a person identified only as H. Hoffman of Boston, another Kennedy friend.

Shaw said he recalled paying off a fourth debt, to an unnamed doctor, but the report made no mention of this.

Several thousands dollars also were spent to pay the expenses of the dinner and miscellaneous other expenses, the report said.

It said the Kennedy campaign committee had $2,000 cash on hand as of May 31, and still owed $10,021 to John T. Campbell, president of radio station WPLM, Plymouth, Mass.

Under a law that took effect April 7, 1972, the Kennedy committee was required to file a registration statement and periodic finance reports starting more than two years ago.

Shaw said he had misunderstood the law, and believed that no reports were required if a political committee was merely paying off old campaign debts.

A spokesman for Kennedy, Richard Drayne, said a report was filed with the Senate as soon as the error was discovered, and that campaign finance reports had been filed twice monthly for the last several years with the secretary of state in Massachusetts, as required by state law.

GI education benefits increase clears conferees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans attending school this fall under the GI bill would get a 23 per cent increase in their monthly payments under legislation approved by Senate and House conferees.

They also would be eligible for a new $1,000-a-year federal loan program and would get an extra year of regular benefit payments, 45 months instead of the current 36.

Ending a months-long deadlock, Senate conferees agreed to shelve until next year a provision to provide veterans with $720 a year in tuition grants, in view of adamant opposition by House members. Their main objection was that there might be abuses similar to those that occurred after World War II.

Chairman Vance Hartke, D., of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee, announced the agreement Tuesday and said he hopes the Senate and House will act quickly so the bill will be on President Ford's desk next week.

"I hope our new President will sign the GI bill as soon as it reaches his desk so the higher checks can start going out before the new school year starts," Hartke said.

The 23 per cent increase would mean a single veteran would get $270 a month instead of $220, a veteran with a wife $321 instead of $261, a veteran with a wife and child $366 instead of $298 and $23 instead of $18 for each dependent over two.

Apprentice and on-the-job rates also would be increased 23 per cent and there would be improvements in some other education benefits.

The 23 per cent increase was offered by House conferees last Friday as one compromise for not accepting the tuition grants. The House earlier passed a 13.6 per cent increase and the Senate an 18 per cent hike compared with administration's 8 per cent cent proposal.

The $1,000 in loans was a reduction from the $2,000 figure in the Senate-passed bill.

The low-interest loans would be payable 10 years after the veteran finishes school, with interest rates set by the Veterans Administration. The loans would be made from the $7 billion National Service Life Insurance Fund which the VA invests in Treasury bonds.

With this bill, Hartke said, GI Bill rates have increased 65 per cent in less than two years.

He said the bill is expected in the next five years to give Vietnam-era veterans an additional $6 billion in direct educational benefits and from $1 billion to $3 billion in low-interest loans. It would allow a single veteran to get up to $3,500 a year by the combination.

Other provisions of the bill would provide an expansion of the veteran work-study program, make improvements in various programs for educationally disadvantaged veterans and strengthen controls over abuses by schools which utilize deceptive advertising and practices.

The bill also strengthens requirements for improved federal efforts to aid unemployed veterans seeking work.

Stowaways found starving on ship

NEW YORK (AP) — A weeklong voyage in the holds of a banana freighter has ended in despair for more than 70 job-seeking South American stowaways who were discovered by crewmen and immigration officials.

Seven of the men were hospitalized Tuesday for treatment of malnutrition after the 12,000-ton Prudential Lines freighter Santa Elena docked here. The rest remained on board today in the custody of immigration officials. Most of them were treated Tuesday for exhaustion, dehydration and hunger.

Officials said the men had been smuggled aboard in Ecuador, hoping to land safely in the United States and find jobs. Prudential said it was trying to arrange a charter flight to fly them back to Ecuador at the line's expense.

About a dozen of the stowaways were discovered at sea when hunger and thirst drove them from their hideaways in search of food and water. Another 61 were found Tuesday, huddled in a hold packed with boxes of green bananas and refrigerated to 52 degrees.

Immigration and customs officials said it was the largest number of stowaways they could remember being seized on one ship here in at least 30 years.

The Santa Elena, which carried fish, shrimp and frozen foods in addition to the bananas, left Guayaquil, Ecuador, on Aug. 6, according to Maurice Kiley, acting director of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service here.

Ten stowaways were found on board and taken off at Balboa, Canal Zone, Prudential said. But it was not until the weekend that crew members discovered the dozen who by that point had become desperate for food. Kiley said they apparently broke into the ship's galley and raided it for peaches and milk. After discovery, they were fed from the ship's stores, Prudential said.

As the ship neared New York, the Coast Guard dispatched a helicopter and cutter to escort the freighter into port, where a search turned up the other 61.

A Prudential spokesman said the stowaways, all Ecuadorian or Colombian nationals, apparently boarded a Guayaquil as the ship was being loaded between Aug. 4 and Aug. 6. Kiley said they were taken aboard as fruit loaders.

The Prudential spokesman said a port hiring boss in Guayaquil had been arrested as the man who conducted the stowaway operation.

Ford not ready to pick vice president

WASHINGTON (AP) — As speculation about the next vice president centers on Nelson A. Rockefeller and George Bush, President Ford is described as still not close to making a choice.

Rockefeller, a former New York governor, is being pushed primarily by liberals or moderates and Bush, the Republican national chairman, mainly by conservatives. However, there is some blurring of ideological lines that indicated GOP acceptance of both possibilities.

Despite the speculation, however, there was no indication that those two were indeed the front-runners.

"It is still at a very preliminary stage," one Ford associate said Tuesday morning. "I would not expect a decision until the end of the week, at the earliest."

A similar comment came from Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who said "I think no decision has been made, and I doubt if the President will start reducing the list until at least tomorrow (Wednesday)." Lawmakers close to the new President professed ignorance about who would be named.

Both House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, who declined to name his personal choice, and Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, who backs

Bush, named Rockefeller and Bush as the two names receiving the most mention.

Rhodes presented sealed envelopes from 121 of the 187 House Republicans to Max Freiendorf, the chief White House liaison man at the House. Scott gave envelopes from 33 of the 42 Senate Republicans to Tom Korologos, the chief presidential aide at the Senate.

In contrast to Rhodes, Scott listed three of his choices — Rockefeller, his first choice; Bush, and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who has support among his fellow Senate conservatives.

As he made the presentation of Korologos, two other GOP senators came in with their envelopes and said Rockefeller was on their lists, along with liberal Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland and conservative Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming.

Ford has told congressional leaders he will name his choice by the Aug. 23 scheduled start of a congressional Labor Day recess.

Meanwhile, former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, one of those under consideration by Ford, said he doesn't want to be vice president. The Milwaukee Journal also quoted Laird as saying he didn't want any job in the administration.

The newspaper quoted Laird as saying, "I can do a lot more during the Scranton not looking for permanent government position, he reaffirms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Pennsylvania Gov. William M. Scranton, who is on President Ford's transition team, said Monday he is sticking by his past declaration that he does not want a permanent government post.

A long-time friend of Ford, Scranton is among the approximately half dozen men helping the President smooth the transition from the administration of Richard M. Nixon. Asked if he would be interested in a Cabinet job after that, Scranton replied: "I've made it very clear since 1966 that I don't want a government job."

Decision on Jaycees' use of Pierce Park is postponed

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent staff writer

Appleton Area Jaycees told the parks and recreation commission Tuesday that they have studied alternative sites for their annual Fourth of July civic celebration, but that none are as desirable as Pierce Park.

Commissioners voted to delay until the September meeting further consideration of the Jaycees' request for use of the park next July.

The commission could, by its action next month, indicate whether use of the park for the next Fourth of July celebration will be granted to the Jaycees or the Committee of Concerned Citizens for the Protection of Appleton Parks, which was formed, in large part, to block Jaycee use of the park.

In other action, commissioners: — Approved architects' plans for a swimming pool at Appleton High School-West. A $650,000 bond issue was approved to finance the new, enclosed pool. Architect Robert Duszak projected the cost at $671,000, not including spectator seating, outside development and fencing. Duszak said he was optimistic the cost could be pared more.

— Approved changing the site of this fall's Applefest from Pierce Park to Goodland Field, subject to the resolving of a conflict between Applefest, Inc., and the Xavier High School athletic department.

— Heard City Forester Floyd Roberts report that the city is losing ground in its battle against Dutch elm disease. A survey of about half the city has revealed there are 457 diseased trees still standing on private property and 543 on city property, Roberts said.

He was sure there are at least another 1,000 infected trees in the other half of Appleton. His department doesn't have adequate manpower to deal with the serious problem, Roberts said. A private firm may have to be contracted, like last year, to assist, commissioners believed.

Richard Novitske, Jaycee president, told the commission his organization has to know before Jan. 1 if it can use Pierce Park next July, because contracts have to be signed with a carnival and concessionaires.

Last month the commission voted not to act on the application of the citizens committee until after Jan. 1 when, it noted, other park use applications are traditionally considered.

The citizens committee, comprised in large part of park area residents who object to the noise and other problems they say result from the Jaycee-sponsored celebration, told the commission it intends to hold smaller scale, youth-oriented activities in Pierce Park next July 4.

The committee submitted the first formal application for use of the park.

Jaycees have used the park for many years.

Novitske said Jaycees are circulating petitions asking that the City Council either approve their continued use of Pierce Park or schedule a November referendum and let the public decide the controversial issue.

A total of 2,377 signatures is needed on the petitions to force the referendum. Novitske said Jaycees hope to present the petitions to the council next week or early in September.

Jaycees presented commissioners with a preliminary report of a study of eight Fourth of July celebration sites, including Erb, Jones, Pierce, Telulah, Langedyke and Hoover parks, Reid

Municipal Golf Course and an unspecified open lot outside the city.

Novitske said considerations included lot size, camp area for carnival workers, set-up area, parking, neighborhood, available restrooms, availability of electric and telephone service, safety and area for shooting fireworks.

The study report indicates that Pierce Park drew the highest rating.

Jaycees already have a considerable investment in telephone and electrical services at Pierce Park, Novitske said, and hate to lose it.

Commissioner Kenneth Romenesko thought Langedyke Park appeared to

New zoning classification in ARA plan

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

The Appleton Redevelopment Authority (ARA) attached a new zoning classification to its first redevelopment project plan and then approved it unanimously Tuesday.

The plan covers 3.73 acres of land bounded by Morrison, Lawrence, Water, Oneida, Kimball and Allen streets and includes three residences, the city's old vocational school and a 175-space parking lot.

The plan must now go to the City Council next week, where it is expected to be referred to committee for debate.

Authority members called on the plan commission to adopt a new high-density apartment residential district to allow for the permitted use provisions included in its plan for high-density apartment use of the project area.

Originally, the ARA had called for rezoning of the project area to an R-4 classification — a zone use only one other place in the city, the Oneida Heights housing project — but fears that project zoning could be effected by later changes in that classification prompted the creation of a new district that would apply only to the ARA project.

The new R-7 zone the ARA is asking the plan commission to formulate would allow apartment buildings of up to 15 stories as well as a host of accessory uses not now allowed in the R-4 zone: Grocery store, restaurant, entertainment facilities, beauty parlors and boutiques, laundries and more.

ARA approval of the project plan Tuesday culminates about eight months of work that was prompted in the beginning by city desires to dispose of its old vocational school site along Kimball Street. The old structure had been closed to all but storage since the fall of 1972 and officials approved turning off the heat in the structure to save fuel oil.

The city parking commission, Americanos Drum & Bugle Corps and the Appleton Youth Drop-In Center still operate out of the vocational school annex, but the ARA will have to assist those facilities to relocate when development occurs.

The ARA saw the vocational school area as its first opportunity to carry out a redevelopment project without federal funds, which were unavailable because Congress was in the midst of changing programs designed to help cities develop.

Two major potential problems still confront the authority as it seeks to get two-thirds approval of its plan from the council and find a developer. They are the parking lot, which the parking commission has so far appeared anxious to hold onto because of its revenue-producing ability; and the soil conditions on the hill overlooking Water Street, which are being tested by the city now but could limit the size of development on the hill.

The ARA hopes to convince city officials that parking revenues will not suffer with the loss of the 175-space lot. With optimum development, the ARA estimates the project can raise the

Pump failure may cut pool season short

KAUKAUNA — Members of the health and recreation committee were informed this week by Recreation Director James Gertz that the filter pump at the swimming pool had burned out Monday, jeopardizing the remainder of the swimming season.

Gertz estimated it would cost between $700 and $1,000 to have the pump repaired and he was not certain whether the repair project would be satisfactory for use in a proposed new filtering system to be installed next year.

He noted that only a few weeks remained before the opening of school and the end of the swimming season. He also reported that all swimming classes had been completed and attendance at the pool had dropped considerably the past few days.

He estimated that the pool could remain open afternoons for five or six days before it would be necessary to filter the existing water. Committee members instructed him to secure cost estimates for repair of the filter pump and to contact a pool consultant to determine whether the repair would be suitable for use of the pump in the proposed filter system.

Committee members said Gertz should "play it by ear" and attempt to keep the pool open, if only on a partial basis, until answers to the various questions can be found.

Parking lot not needed, ARA says

The Appleton Redevelopment Authority (ARA) — after agreeing that the city's 175-space parking lot along E. Lawrence Street is "neither necessary nor useful" to the city's parking system — wants to meet with the parking commission to work out the biggest stumbling block to its first redevelopment project.

The ARA hopes to meet with the parking commission next week — the same week the city's first redevelopment plan goes to the City Council for approval.

In a four-page paper outlining the ARA's position, Executive Director Eric Hemphill argues that the loss of the E. Lawrence Street lot will not mean a loss in parking revenues. They may, in fact, increase, he writes.

Hemphill also argues that the city can dispose of the property without violating terms of its bonding agreement for the financing of the Soldiers Square parking ramp and can continue to meet its bond obligations without the lot.

Staff Engineer Albert Letzkus said today that the parking commission would probably need a new parking lot nearby to continue to meet its parking obligation.

He agrees with Hemphill that the Soldiers Square ramp could now handle the cars using the Lawrence Street lot, but it would push the ramp to nearly 100 per cent capacity and leave the city with a problem in future years if other parking space is not provided.

Hemphill's report urges the city to resurface the old Congregational Church site west of Oneida Street and south of Lawrence to make it a revenue-producing parking lot capable of handling 70 autos. Letzkus said this is already being done, but the lot would not be an adequate replacement for the Lawrence Street site because it will be eliminated with construction of the Oneida Street high-level bridge.

"What are we going to do two or three years from now?" asked Letzkus.

The traffic engineer said he is conducting a survey of parking habits in the Lawrence Street lot which should be completed near the end of next week. Until then, he said, there are not enough facts to make a decision.

Hemphill argues that the lot was originally installed to accommodate the old vocational school, but that since that school has been closed, revenue has been declining from the lot from a high of $11,109 in 1968 to $8,979 in 1972. It was $9,150 last year and is heading for a similar total in 1974, he said.

Revenues from the Soldiers Square ramp have also been declining since the school was closed, he points out, suggesting that both were the result of the closing of the vocational school.

Hemphill argues that all-day parkers have moved from the Soldiers Square to Lawrence Street lot because the fee for ten hours of parking there is less than one-half what it is in the ramp.

Soldiers Square ramp is under-utilized, he said, and by eliminating the Lawrence Street lot, the city could increase parking revenues by forcing the users of the Lawrence Street lot over there.

"In actuality, if all present users of Lot No. 7 (the Lawrence lot) shifted to the Soldiers Square ramp, where they would pay a higher rate, the revenue to the system would be increased by about $9,000 per year," wrote Hemphill in his report.

Commissioners commended the thoroughness of Hemphill's report Tuesday, but wondered if they should bring the question before city officials now or wait for plans from an actual developer for its first redevelopment project before bringing it up.

They finally agreed to bring it to the parking commission now. Aldermen will get first crack at the project plan — which covers a 3.73-acre site bounded by Allen, Lawrence, Water, Kimball, Morrison and Oneida streets and includes the 75-space lot — next week, but are expected to send it to committee before taking action.

"I'm for redevelopment of the downtown just like everybody else is," said Letzkus today. But he said there has not been enough research to justify elimination of Lot 7 without replacing it with another one nearby.

Ordinance would allow Kimberly apartment complex

By BOB LOWE
Post-Crescent staff writer

KIMBERLY — The Planning Commission Tuesday night unanimously approved a motion to amend an ordinance that would allow the construction of an apartment complex here but not before about 50 residents had an opportunity to express their unanimous opposition to the proposal.

The commission's recommendation called for a reduction in the statutory minimum acreage from five to "less than four but not less than two acres" for this type of multi-family dwelling.

The measure must still be approved by the village board. A public hearing on the matter must be conducted before the board can accept or reject the recommendation. If the board adopts the amended ordinance, the planning commission would still have to give its recommendation on the proposed project and the village board will ultimately make the final decision.

Area residents, led by Gerald Reetz, 416 S. Joseph St., objected to the $500,000, seven-building apartment complex on the grounds that it would increase traffic congestion, add to the village's population density, overload the sewage system and add to the tax burdens of the residents.

The proposed complex, which is being considered by Riverdale Corp., Combined Locks, would contain 42 apartments, one unit of six having one bedroom and the remainder having two bedrooms.

The location under consideration is a 2.64-acre site south of Fourth Street, between Joseph and Wilbur streets.

Opponents of the project argued that the apartment "does not conform to the character of the neighborhood." Reetz said the complex could be "disruptive of the pattern of living for one-family residences" and that it would crowd too many people into too small an area.

Planners estimate that the additional dwellings would house about 125 people.

"We have grown accustomed to a way of life here," Reetz said, adding that this included getting away from areas of high population density and traffic congestion.

Another resident stated that many of the property owners in the village "bought and built out there so that they could be secluded."

So adamant were the residents

Metro sewerage district gets OK

BY ED VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent staff writer

KAUKAUNA — The Department of Natural Resources has approved formation of a metropolitan sewerage district encompassing Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks and formation of a metropolitan sewerage commission to manage the affairs of the district.

The formation of such a Heart of the Valley metropolitan district had been requested by the various municipalities to permit planners to proceed with the development of a centralized sewage treatment plant in Kaukauna to serve the entire area.

A metropolitan system was necessary to enable the communities to qualify for state and federal aid in the development of the collection system and expansion of the existing Kaukauna plant at a cost expected to reach $11.2 million.

The communities have been working with Donohue and Associates, Sheboygan engineering firm, for almost three years on planning the system, relying on money from member municipalities to supply the money. An eight-member commission was handling the preliminary planning.

That commission will turn over the entire project to the new commission, which under state law will have five members. Member municipalities are hopeful that the new commission can take over next month. All are currently seeking applications from citizens interested in serving on the commission.

On hearing of the DNR ruling, Kaukauna Mayor Robert LaPlante said

"The word now is go. All obstacles as to procedures have been eliminated and it clears the air for the design engineers who will now be able to go to the commission and get concrete answers. The district has been established and we must get busy and name commission members."

Combined Locks Village President Marvin Schumacher said he was happy with the ruling. "I am hopeful that it can speed up the timetable and see the project through to an early completion." He said his village had already received several applications from "good people" interested in serving on the commission.

Kaukauna Engineer Robert Natrop, who has served on the eight-member commission since its inception, said, "We're most happy to receive this order. The commission felt all along that the regional system to serve the four communities was the most economical and feasible plan and the order by the DNR shows the state agrees with our thinking."

He said the present commission would meet with the new metropolitan commission to make its members aware of accomplishments to date and to help assist them in the transition of takeover of planning and development.

The new district will have its treatment plant on the site of the existing Kaukauna facility and will be designed to meet the Heart of the Valley volume needs through 1985.

Large interceptor sewers will carry the sewage from the three villages to the Kaukauna plant. Plans call for tak-

Size of health board will be kept at 15

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

The unified mental health services board will stay at 15 members, but the tangled question of how the board of trustees for the institutions is constituted will remain in legal limbo for at least another month.

On a vote of 24-17, the Outagamie County Board rejected a plan Tuesday night to cut the unified health board to nine members and to re-create the board of trustees as a separate entity. The trustees are now part of the unified board.

There is now a question of when the terms of the members of the trustees expire. County Board Chairman Fu-gene Higgins contended that the term of John Wylie expires Jan. 1, 1976, and the term of Sylvester Esler, on Jan. 1, 1975. Corp. Counsel William Schuh interpreted the terms of both to expire today. Schuh and Higgins agreed that the term of Keiland Lathrop expires Jan. 1, 1976.

Wylie and Esler were both appointed trustees before the unified health board was created and those were the terms referred to by Higgins. Schuh said he felt it had been the intent of the county board to reorganize the trustees when it created the unified board and that the terms coincided with the unified board appointments.

Sept. 8 deadline on plant decision

NEENAH-MENASHA — With a maze of unanswered questions, the sewerage commission decided Tuesday to give itself, the two cities and industrial users a little more time to decide on the feasibility of building the $29 million sewage plant addition.

Meanwhile Bergstrom Paper Co., told the commission that it wants out of the user fee agreement which could have a substantial bearing on whether other industries stay in and whether the plant is built.

The decision to grant the time extension came after four industries, Kimberly-Clark Corp., Gilbert Paper Co., Wisconsin Tissue Mills and Menasha Corporation's John Strange Division asked to be given until Sept. 8 to study the newly computed plant costs.

Robert Biebel representing Consoer Townsend Associates, filed a preliminary report with the commission with a breakdown of costs and shares if the four industries and Bergstrom Paper Co., decided to stay in.

However, Bergstrom, in a letter filed with the commission Friday, indicated that it was selecting an option it has under the user fee agreement and was dropping out.

Although there are several alternatives in the contract which allow any of the participants to opt out, the major ones are: if federal and state aid levels fall below the 65 per cent mark; if the project cost runs 125 per cent over estimates, and if the industrial rent costs exceed 125 per cent.

It was this last option that was selected by Bergstroms according to William Giese, commission attorney. "It's clear they are terminating the agreement," Giese said adding that as far as he was concerned, the contract with Bergstrom was "kaput, through."

The other four industries, probably with the knowledge of Bergstrom's decision, asked for the extra time to "evaluate everything."

Gary Schmidt, Gilbert technical director, explained that "we've just received this information tonight. Taken in this time frame it is impossible to look at it and make a rational decision. It will give us all an opportunity to look at it — it's a big decision for everybody."

The contract users had 30 days from the bid opening to compute the costs and select the option of dropping out of the project. That time would have expired Thursday.

Commissioner Walter Chrapla asked Schmidt if the Bergstrom decision was the prime factor in the other four industries asking for the time extension. Schmidt said "it is a reason, but I'm not sure that it's the prime reason. There's a shortage of time and we can't make a good decision tonight."

Chrapla later voted in favor of the extension stressing "the shortage of time to consider going into the plant without Bergstrom."

The Sept. 8 date was chosen because it is 30 days from the time that Robert Bues, plant manager personally delivered the cost breakdown and naming the apparent low bidders as passed in a resolution on Aug. 1.

Although Bergstrom has selected an option to get out of the user fee agreement, Giese and Bues explained that it doesn't necessarily mean that the company will not be served by the plant.

There's a decision pending at the Department of Natural Resources on a hearing held two weeks ago during which Bergstrom asked for permission to be out of the plant and be allowed to build its own. Company attorneys argued that it could build its own treatment facility cheaper and quicker.

If the DNR rules in favor of the cities and commission which took strong positions against the company dropping out, it will mean Bergstrom coming back to the commission and renegotiating another agreement, Giese said.

There's also more questions to be answered especially in the area of pending federal aid. Although the plant is assured of 25 per cent state funding, so far federal grants total only $8.1 million and there's no assurance that more will be forthcoming.

At the present levels, state and federal aid are slightly less than 60 per cent, which would also give the industrial users the option of dropping out of the project.

If Bergstrom is not part of the project, it's 33 per cent share would have to be spread over the other users which would include the four industries, and non-contract users which would be paying the sewer user fee calculated on water usage.

However, Giese and Bues stressed that the Bergstrom letter only covered the user fee agreement and not the plant.

On Giese's urging the commission added to the time extension paragraph which made it clear that the commission and two cities were also keeping their options open.

Biebel is currently working on another report which would compute the costs of the plant and operations without Bergstrom being a part of it.

County fair opens

OSHKOSH — A bright sun shone on the opening of the Winnebago County Fair today as carnival workers, concessionaires, performers and exhibitors of all types braced for the onslaught of fun seekers and browsers expected now through Sunday.

Entertainment was provided immediately with the Judy Stillman Family Show, featuring nearly 100 dancers, performing at 9 a.m. That was followed by a "fairest of the fair" beauty competition at 11 a.m. The winner, from among nine young woman entrants, was to be crowned at noon. Mistress of ceremonies for the pageant was Sandy Campbell, the reigning Miss Dominion of Canada. This marks the first year the fairest of the fair competition.

Spectator action continues tonight with stock car races and a demolition derby at the fairgrounds grandstand. Time trials begin at 7 p.m. Between 50 and 60 stock car drivers will compete in the races beginning at 8 p.m. which includes a 50-lap feature. The demolition derby and motorcycle races will follow stock car competition.

Free grandstand shows will be featured on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Thursday night event will be a tractor pulling contest, beginning at 7:30 p.m. That will be preceded by an afternoon performance of "Fun on Horseback." The horseback show features 4-H youths competing in a variety of races and contests, including slaloms, sack races and tandem riding. That show begins at 1:30 p.m. at the grandstand.

Judging of 4-H horse entries will take place at the grandstand at 1:30 p.m. Friday. An 8 p.m. Friday evening show will feature the Warren Bills orchestra. Both Friday events are free. The evening show will also include performances by The Bumpy Family, an acrobatic act; the Goetschi Brothers, a comedy team from Switzerland, and by comic juggler Bobby Winters.

Continuing the free grandstand show policy will be a harness racing event at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The free evening show will be a repeat of Friday night's performers.

Harness racing will again be the afternoon attraction on Sunday, at 1:30 p.m. The fair will wind up with a 7:30 p.m. show featuring the Hurricane Hell Drivers Thrill Show. Admission will be charged for that show.

Fair officials reported a large number of entries by youth exhibitors. More than 1,000 4-H, Future Farmers of America (FFA) and Future Homemakers of America (FHA) members have brought their projects and exhibits to be viewed by fairgoers. Entries in the food and clothing categories were reported to be more than last year's levels. Many paintings and drawings are also on display in the arts and crafts exhibit section.

Judging of the youth exhibits and events will continue throughout the fair. Cats and dogs will be featured in a judging event on Sunday, and this year even guinea pigs will have their day in front of the judges.

The fairgrounds will open its attractions to the public at 11 a.m. Thursday, 9 a.m. Friday, and 11 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday. General admission for adults is $1 daily through Saturday. A reduced price of 75 cents is in effect on Sunday. Children under 12 are admitted to the fairgrounds daily for 50 cents each.

County board refers data processing, landfill site back to committees

County supervisors temporarily side-stepped two controversial issues Tuesday night by referring them back to committee, but not before there had been almost a full airing of both questions.

Referred back to the finance committee was the proposal to lease data processing equipment from NCR, as opposed to contracting with an outside firm for the service.

A referral was made to the zoning committee of a resolution authored by Supv. John Hennessy to proceed with a study to develop a sanitary landfill site on county airport property.

The data processing issue, which has been around for nearly a year, came out of the finance committee on a 3-2 recommendation for leasing equipment. But Hennessy, who was the "swing" vote, said he was unhappy with the way the resolution was written.

He had indicated he would only support the leasing program if the personnel requirements and a table of organization were first determined by the personnel committee. As written, however, the resolution would first put the program into effect.

Hennessy sought to amend the resolution, but the referral back to committee was made before his amendment reached a vote.

Supv. John Schreiter, finance chairman and an opponent to leasing, contended that leasing carried an unknown expense in terms of manpower requirements. "Until that unknown is available this is like passing a blank check," he said.

His feelings were echoed by Supv. Gene Retzlaff, who also opposed the resolution in the finance committee. Retzlaff said the committee had been told the program would require only one additional person. "I can't believe that," Retzlaff said.

Supv. Nick Karras accused the opponents of leasing of trying to "destroy the issue on personalities." He indicated that most of the opponents had also killed other issues backed by County Executive Alvin Woehler, a charge denied by Schreiter.

Supv. Ted LaPin compared the county board to a horse backing up and wearing blinders so he can't see where he's going. "We needed an outside professional study of our needs," he said.

Opposition to Hennessy's landfill proposal came from members of the airport committee who contended a landfill would create a bird hazard.

Supv. Harold Miller, referring to a National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) report on a fatal crash at an airport in Georgia, said there were enough problems at the airport. "Don't compound the problems by adding another one," he said.

The NTSB report indicated the cause of the crash was the ingestion of birds from a nearby dump into the jet engines of the airplane.

Hennessy suggested that all of the facts are not available on the effects of a properly operated sanitary landfill site. He said he had received a copy of an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) study from the FAA on the bird problem at airports.

The study covered 105 disposal sites near 32 airports. Hennessy said, and the findings were that there were serious bird problems at 19 of the airports and no bird problems at 13 airports. But, he noted, "only 29 of the 105 disposal sites were operated as sanitary landfills." The rest were open dumps. "That is hardly something that can be compared to what the county will operate."

Hennessy said that no place in the study does it say that a sanitary landfill is a hazard. Referring to the report, Hennessy said, "they're not talking sanitary landfill, they're talking about open dumps."

Supv. John Dietz, a member of the airport committee, contended that the same report indicted there were seagull problems at landfill sites with daily cover. "We have a seagull problem at the airport now," Dietz said. "I can't see why we should encourage it."

County Board Chairman Eugene Higgins ordered the resolution referred to committee under a board rule that requires a referral on the first reading of any resolution not carrying a committee recommendation.

Hennessy's resolution had been signed by five supervisors as individuals. An attempt by Hennessy to get a two-thirds vote to suspend the referral requirement fell four votes short.

While the disposal site remains controversial, the internal fight over control of the solid waste program was settled on a 39-3 vote establishing the zoning committee as the jurisdictional committee for the program.

This also leaves the operation as a separate department with a department head in pay grade 20, two pay grades lower than requested by Woehler.

In other action, the board authorized the airport committee to submit a grant request for construction of a building to house the airport fire truck, and approved the sale of the old terminal building to Stephenson Electric Co. for $3,000.

Laird Co. officer faces Tennessee court charges

An official of the recently closed Appleton appraising, mapping and consultant firm of James R. Laird & Co. was released on a $5,000 signature bond Tuesday after a court appearance for issuing worthless checks.

The request for the apprehension of Leslie C. Abbott, 1528 N. Linwood Ave., was made by officials from Cumberland County, Tenn., who informed local authorities that they had received four worthless payroll checks totaling $895 and bearing Abbott's and another signature, apparently that of Laird.

Tennessee officials said they would request extradition.

Abbott, 40, was identified as an executive vice president in the firm by Dist. Atty. John Ensley. He was released after an appearance before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Schaefer continued the case to Sept. 9.

Ensley said local prosecution of Laird officials appears likely, as his office has started to receive worthless checks similar to those received by the Tennessee officials.

Size of health board won't be cut

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

The unified mental health services board will stay at 15 members, but the tangled question of how the board of trustees for the institutions is constituted will remain in legal limbo for at least another month.

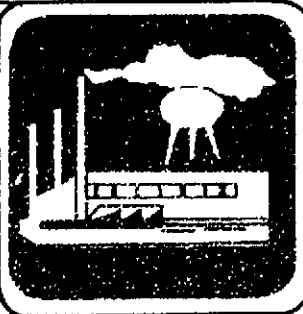

On a vote of 24-17, the Outagamie County Board rejected a plan Tuesday night to cut the unified health board to nine members and to re-create the board of trustees as a separate entity. The trustees are now part of the unified board.

There is now a question of when the terms of the members of the trustees expire. County Board Chairman Eugene Higgins contended that the term of John Wylie expires Jan. 1, 1976, and the term of Sylvester Esler, on Jan. 1, 1975. Corp. Counsel William Schuh interpreted the terms of both to expire today. Schuh and Higgins agreed that the term of Kelland Lathrop expires Jan. 1, 1976.

regional news

The Post-Crescent
Wednesday, Aug. 14, 1974

B-1

Wylie and Esler were both appointed trustees before the unified health board was created and those were the terms referred to by Higgins. Schuh said he felt it had been the intent of the county board to reorganize the trustees when it created the unified board and that the terms coincided with the unified board appointments.

Higgins promised that the question would be settled by the next board meeting, but in the meantime the hearing before the trustees on the dismissal of Eugene Speener as health center superintendent is scheduled for Aug. 21.

Supv. Ted LaPin, chairman of the unified board, said the proposal to reduce its membership has never been brought to the unified board. "Apparently it has been avoided," he said.

He noted that the board seldom has had its full complement of 15 members in its year of existence, but he felt the board had attempted to accomplish its goals. "To take the trustees out would be disunifying," LaPin contended. "It might be easier to run politically, but the total services would be less."

He added that he felt the board "is on its way. We would like to be fully staffed and show what we can do."

His reference to staffing was the vacancies on the board. County Executive Alvin Woehler, who has pushed for a reduction to nine members, has not filled three vacancies caused by resignations and there are now three more vacancies because of terms expiring.

Two former opponents of the large board size also came to its support. Supv. Eugene Kloes charged the reduction proposal was "vindictively motivated," and Supv. John Schreiter said that since observing the board in action he has been "impressed by the caliber of people." The vacancies on the board have been the "greatest injustice," he added. Supv. George Schroeder, a member of the unified board, contended the dual role of the trustees created a conflict of interest. "The unified board is the only way to go."

Congressmen react favorably to Ford's talk

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent staff writer

Northeastern Wisconsin's two Republican congressmen, and the state's two Democratic senators, had praise Tuesday for President Ford's Monday night address to Congress.

Rep. Harold Froehlich of Appleton said he was "excited and impressed" by the speech and called it "a good start" for the new President.

Rep. William Steiger of Oshkosh called the speech "an excellent one in terms of both substance and approach," which "said what I think needed to be said."

Sen. Gaylord Nelson also called it "a good beginning for the administration," and a "refreshingly open appeal" for national unity.

Sen. William Proxmire, a leading Senate spokesman on economic matters, said he was "delighted and very happy with his very strong emphasis on the need to hold down federal spending."

But Proxmire also pointed to an issue that could generate the first serious disagreement between Congress and the new President, who emphasized in his speech his desire for cooperation with Congress.

"You may get one fairly early and sharp difference of opinion on military spending," said Proxmire. The President stressed his opposition to "unwarranted cuts" in the defense budget. "The issue is, what is warranted and what is not warranted," said Proxmire.

Proxmire said Congress seems inclined to cut the defense budget by at least $4 billion, and may attempt to go as deep as $8 billion.

At the same time, Proxmire said,

Congress may wish to spend more heavily than Ford would like on domestic programs.

Proxmire also declared his agreement with Ford that a study of the nation's economic problems should be completed "in six weeks, rather than six months."

Proxmire is vice chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, which is conducting the study. He announced that in compliance with Ford's wishes, an interim report on the study will be completed "by Sept. 23." The final report will still take until the end of the year to complete, however, he said.

Proxmire expressed some reservation about Ford's call for a balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning next July. "I only wish he had called for a balanced budget this year," said Proxmire, citing recent action in Congress calling for reductions in the federal spending deficit.

He called the general tone of the speech and its emphasis on cooperation with Congress "most desirable, after the kind of an adversary relationship" that existed with the Nixon Administration.

Proxmire and Steiger were interviewed by telephone. Nelson and Froehlich issued prepared statements through spokesmen.

Steiger said Ford's call to reactivate the Cost of Living Council, but without economic controls, "was not greeted with overwhelming enthusiasm by anyone, including myself. I am not sure that you need to have that particular kind of an agency, and obviously I feel very deeply about not going back down the road of wage-price controls."

Steiger said he does not interpret Ford's comments on defense spending as meaning "no cuts." The 6th District Republican noted that there is already talk of efforts by the President to require the Defense Department to absorb in its present budget a proposed military pay increase.

Steiger said what he particularly liked in the speech was that it was "low key, very direct, and it said what I think needed to be said in terms of the attention the President intends to pay to the economy and his pledge of continuing our foreign policy."

Froehlich said the speech showed the new President's strength and leadership ability as well as warmth, humanity and a sense of humor.

"The President wants to work with Congress, to cooperate and to compromise. But he also made it clear that he will lead whenever strong leadership is required."

Froehlich applauded the emphasis on solving the nation's economic problems. "The country wants action on inflation, and the President has promised to provide it."

"All-in-all, I think the new President has made a good start. Gerald Ford will wear well with the American people. He is a plainspoken, simple man with a lot of substance. He is a man who will restore and inspire trust."

Nelson also said Ford "properly identified the economy and inflation as the first order of business." He suggested that the President could begin "by jawboning General Motors over their outrageous 10 per cent price increase."

Ford in fact had issued a sharp criticism of the company's price increase.

First woman on board of agriculture

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The appointment of Jocelyn Rhein of Brownsville to the Wisconsin Board of Agriculture was announced today by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

She would be the first woman to serve on the seven-member board if her appointment to fill out the remainder of the term of Arden Grudem of Eau Claire until May 1 is confirmed by the Senate. Grudem resigned.

Mrs. Rhein, 57, is executive secretary of the Wisconsin Grange and a member of the Holstein Association, American Dairy Association and the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., auxiliary.

Attempt to ruin union is charged

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

WASHINGTON — The Air Force has paid the Oshkosh Truck Co. $1.6 million in a "blatant attempt to destroy" United Auto Workers Local 578, U.S. Rep. Les Aspin charged Tuesday.

A company spokesman said he didn't "know where he got his figures" but wouldn't respond further to the charge.

"I would not dignify his statement with a reply," said Personnel Director Donald Mosling.

Ray Majerus, head of the UAW's five-state region 10, said from Milwaukee Tuesday that "the company has found a Santa Claus" in the Air Force.

Majerus said the union was planning a large rally before the end of the month in Oshkosh to "bring to the attention of the citizens of Oshkosh" the "unrealistic" and "immoral" stand taken by the company since the local went out on strike June 1.

Majerus said the company has withdrawn its original offer of a 90-cent pay increase of three years. It is now offering no pay increase and a cost of living adjustment provision that is lower than the one included in the previous contract.

"While they're getting rich from the Air Force, on taxpayers' money, they're saying to their workers we will not offer you one single penny of pay increase during the next three years," Majerus said.

The Air Force was called twice by The Post-Crescent for comment on Aspin's charge, but failed to respond.

Aspin said the company is under a $30.9 million contract to build 223 highly specialized fire trucks for use at Air Force bases. Since June 1, when the strike of about 425 employees started, the company has failed to deliver 46 trucks scheduled for delivery, Aspin said.

"Ordinarily, public officials avoid becoming embroiled in labor-management disputes," said Aspin, in a press release from his Washington office. "But, in this case the Air Force's behavior has been so outrageous and one-sided I believe that I must intervene," he said.

The 1st District congressman said his office began an investigation after being contacted by Local 578.

Majerus said Tuesday that the strike dispute with the Oshkosh firm "started over very minimal and legitimate issues" but "has turned into a union busting effort by the company because of the Air Force's position."

Mosling said union and management negotiators have met three times with a federal mediator. The last time was Thursday.

The offer made then by the company — which Majerus said included no wage increases and a cut-back cost of living provision — was turned down by a 350-0 vote of union membership Monday night in Oshkosh.

Majerus charged that the company had to keep wages low in order to get the company contract.

"The $1.6 million payment by the Air Force to Oshkosh truck since the strike began subsidizes the company and hurts the union," Aspin said.

Waupaca to lease unit for disabled

WAUPACA — After listening carefully to programs for the mentally retarded and developmentally disabled in sheltered workshop and day care which will be offered in a new building in Manawa and being advised of their legal responsibility, the Waupaca County board voted, Tuesday, to sign a 10-year lease on the building.

The lease on the 10,800 square foot metal building to be constructed by Sturm Building Corporation and ready for use by Jan. 1, 1975, calls for an annual rental of $1,400 and the estimated property tax on the $140,000 building is $6,000 to $7,000.

Prior to the vote, Richard Gauerke, coordinator for developmental disabilities, Unified Health Services of Shawano and Waupaca County, explained the need for the building and how it will be used.

"Our goal is to educate, counsel and train disabled persons to the highest level of their capabilities. This includes the mentally retarded, the cerebral palsied, the mentally ill and the chronic alcoholic and drug abuser.

"The current federal and state thrust is away from institutions and this means that people in colonies and other state institutions, who did not belong there in the first place, will be released," he continued. "This means that we will serve these people locally and teach them to constructively use their time."

"For every dollar spent on these persons who have been idle and unproductive, we get $7 in return," Gauerke said. "We need this facility to improve their lives, make them productive, train them to earn a wage and make them socially acceptable citizens."

The cost for keeping a county resident in one of the colonies is $1,100 per month and in Winnebago Mental Insti-

Brillion to advance recreation plan

BRILLION — The City Council this week approved a park and recreation commission recommendation to implement the first draft of the outdoor recreation plan as submitted by the special projects division of the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The city has been granted a period of eligibility to apply for aids for park and recreation development and will ask the state agencies that can provide the required planning and design services at a nominal cost for their assistance.

The commission also recommended that the city require subdivision developers to designate specific areas for park and playground use. The guideline suggested was one acre for every 25 residences, but not to exceed one-third of the area of the plan. Where no suitable land exists the developer would be required to pay $100 for each lot into a special fund for park development. The proposal was referred to the plan commission.

Operators of Lemberger Landfill, Inc., Whitelaw, presented a proposal for disposing of burnable and nonburn-able wastes. The liquid toxic materials could be contracted separately at the rate of eight cents per gallon. The city affairs committee was asked to make a recommendation.

Aldermen reported many complaints about persons congregating outside a downtown bar and reportedly obstructing traffic and offending passersby with profanity. The council gave unanimous support to the police department to take whatever steps may be necessary to remedy the problem. A special meeting will be arranged with all tavern proprietors to discuss the issue and will include the finance and police committee and the police committee.

Aldermen were indignant over population figures released by the state showing Brillion with a population of 2,556, a decrease of 144 from 1970. They viewed the statistics as unusual because of the losses sustained in other areas. For example, in 1970, when the population was listed as 2,558, there were 1478 registered automobiles, 12 filed tax returns and $26,900 in dollar exemptions. Comparable figures for 1974 show 1,595 automobiles, 1,402 tax returns and $41,900 in dollar exemptions.

The statistics, which affect the amount of revenue sharing received, have been contested by several larger communities with little success, leaving the smaller cities with little hope of adjustment. Ald. Eugene Buboltz, who recently completed a census in connection with ward realignment, said there were 277 more persons physically counted than shown in the 1970 census figures and he estimated the population to be 2,879.

Addition of a fourth ward was discussed briefly and the proposal presented by Buboltz received approval from the council. An ordinance to implement the change will be introduced at the next session and a map showing the proposed boundaries will be published prior to the next session. The statistics should be used as a minimum of 4,000 and maximum of 4,100. The 2nd and 3rd wards probably exceed the maximum population figures now noted.

According to the plan, Main Street extended would be the dividing line for the supervisory districts. Center Street is the proposed dividing line for the two wards west of Main Street. East of Main, areas north of Madison, plus the block bordered by Horn, Francis and Madison, would constitute the northeast ward and all remaining areas south would constitute the southeast. The change would not affect any of the aldermen or supervisors, and two additional aldermen would be elected from the northeast ward at the 1975 spring election.

Merlin Wieting, local funeral director, asked council approval of a building for body storage during the winter at his present Main Street location. The council previously had thought the structure at this location would not meet state requirements. Wieting, however, reported that his legal counsel contends that the regulations do not pertain to temporary storage, and noted that 11 funeral homes in the state use this method. The council, before ruling on the issue, wants legal advice on whether the building is permitted in a commercial area without zoning and if a public hearing is required. The cemetery commission also will be

Police seek poodle that bit child

NEW LONDON — Police are trying to locate a small, shaggy white poodle, last seen in the vicinity of Shiocton Street Sunday. The dog reportedly does not have a collar or any other distinguishable features.

The dog bit 2-year-old Mark Breitnick on the arm at the west end of Shiocton Street Sunday morning. Police are attempting the locate the dog for observation so the child will not have to undergo the rabies shot series.

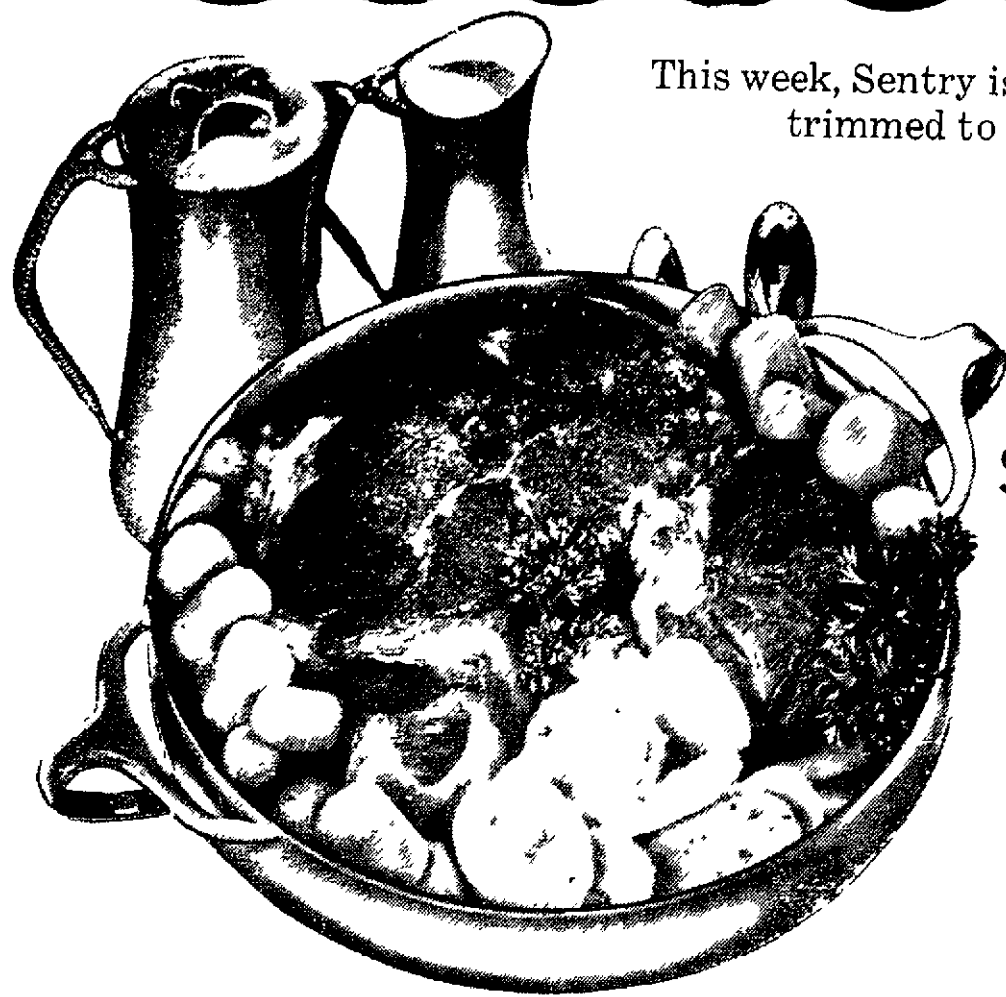

Police have checked nine dogs in the area meeting the description, but have not as yet positively identified the dog. Anyone with a dog matching the description is asked to contact the police department. Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Breitnick, 1201 Shiocton St.

Vehicle license delay due to huge backlogs

Q: When I recently applied for my new car license plates, the plates came in about 10 days but I didn't get the title for about three weeks after that. Why the delay of 10 days, in the first place? And why doesn't everything come all at once?

A: For reasons that can only be guessed, the bureau of registration in the division of motor vehicles was flooded by a surge of nearly 60,000 vehicle registration applications during a peak period of about three weeks last May.

This increase, plus a nearly 50 per cent increase in motorcycle registration, created a substantial backlog which the bureau of registration is just now getting out from under.

The reason you get your license plate in a very short time, despite the backlog, is because of a pre-screening process that the bureau has installed.

In this procedure, the staff merely checks basic information — type of plates, month of expiration and fees — then mails the plates as soon as possible so you will at least have something to put on your car.

The application is then audited for any mistakes or errors of fact. If there are no errors, it still takes about three weeks for an audit.

If the bureau were to send both plates and titles together, it would be about five weeks before you got any response to your application and you would probably be making some inquiries which would take your time and staff time to do some unnecessary work.

This new procedure, plus the addition of extra summer employees, is resulting in good progress which should mean an average return time of seven days on license plates and 15-20 days on titles by the end of August.

Anyone filing applications can help the bureau keep the process going as fast as possible by making sure the forms are filled out accurately and completely; making sure that the title from previous owners, if purchased privately, is properly signed, that the tax forms are included with the application and that the proper fee is enclosed. It is illegal to operate a vehicle before a title is applied for, so the application should be submitted promptly.

You can get help on a first-time application from the full-time offices at Madison and Milwaukee, and from the driver license offices in Appleton, Beloit, Elkhorn, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Janesville, Manitowoc, Racine, Sheboygan, Superior and Wausau. Renewals can be made only at Madison and Milwaukee, however.

The increase in motorcycle registrations, incidentally, is phenomenal. As of July 1, 1974, the bureau had registered 99,500 motorcycles, compared to 83,000 throughout all of last year. At this rate, the bureau will register 125,000 motorcycles in 1974, which is about half again as many as it registered last year.

Russian dancers plan to go ahead with opening in spite of bomb blast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Russia's Moiseyev Dancers are scheduled to open a six-day performance at the Shrine Auditorium tonight despite a bomb blast which damaged two doors in the building.

No injuries were reported in the explosion on Monday, and Cmdr. Peter Hagan of the Los Angeles Police Department said detectives had no clues to the bomber's identity.

An anti-Soviet demonstration was planned today by the Southern California Council for Soviet Jews.

"We oppose violence of any sort. We plan to get our message across in a peaceful and constructive way," the spokesman said.

Bill boosting benefits gets House approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to boost benefits for American civilian prisoners of war and set priorities for paying off World War II claims against the government was approved Monday by the House. The House tacked the new priorities for paying war claims on to a Senate-passed bill raising the civilian detention benefits, passed the package 368 to 17, and sent it back to the Senate.

Russia more likely to supply energy to U.S. than People's Republic

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Foreign Relations Committee survey indicates the Soviet Union is much more likely than the People's Republic of China to become a major supplier of energy, metals and other raw materials to the United States and other Western countries.

The study released Monday was prepared for the subcommittee on multinational corporations. It said the potential for rapid petroleum development by the People's Republic has been severely limited by the renewal of a policy of nonforeign involvement in the development of Chinese offshore petroleum resources.

Röbert Biechler, left, president of the Outagamie County Tavern League Association, passes some funds to Marilyn Olson, president of the Outagamie County Unit of the American Cancer Society following a successful fund raising drive conducted by area tavern owners. Using the Cancer Society's Buck Board, county tavern owners raised $1,011 for use by the local unit of the society. Buck Boards are a yearly project of the Tavern League of Wisconsin, which last year donated more than $60,000 to the various state units of the American Cancer Society. (Post-Crescent photo) against the apartment complex that they expressed preference for an industrial use of the land, which is what it is presently zoned for. A village ordinance prohibits residential construction in an industrial zone.

"Let them build a warehouse," said one man in the audience. "I'll even help them put it up."
Planning commission members, including Village President Eugene Schelfhout, who heads the advisory body, pointed out that the proposed project is actually "upgrading" the quality of the land and that under the proposed ordinance change, the developer would be under strict constraints.
Results of a traffic study ordered by Schelfhout at the last meeting July 24 were presented by Sgt. Thomas Oatman of the Kimberly Police Department. The study showed that traffic in the area under consideration is "very light."
Patrick Flanagan, director of public works, and R. Gregory Lockhart, village engineer, further argued that the sewage system is capable of handling the increased load. Even with the addition of 125 residents, Lockhart said, the system would be operating at only 70 per cent of its actual capacity.
The residents questioned this assessment, complaining that many of the basements in the village have been flooded by backup water from the sewage. Flanagan stated that this results from unauthorized connections to the dual sewer lines.
Planning commission members, with some minor reservations, generally favor the project. A vote taken among the audience showed that not one single person was in favor of the apartment complex.
At one point, Reetz exclaimed to Schelfhout. "You guys have been trying to get industry in here so bad it's unreal."
But commission member Robert Remmel said that given a choice he would prefer the residential units to any type of industrial firm. He said the present zoning allowing for industrial construction is bad and that upgrading the land for residential use "is a highly desirable part of planning."
Marvin Schumacher, spokesman for Riverdale, defended the project as complementary to the neighborhood. He said his company would meet with all specifications spelled out in the village ordinances for residential zoning.
Flanagan seemed somewhat disturbed at insinuations from the audience that the commission was not representing the interests of the people of the village.
"We are a planning commission, not a wrecking commission," he said.
The proposed construction site was previously owned by Kimberly-Clark Corp.

First woman on board of agriculture

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The appointment of Jocelyn Rhein of Brownsville to the Wisconsin Board of Agriculture was announced today by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.
She would be the first woman to serve on the seven-member board if her appointment to fill out the remainder of the term of Arden Grudem of Eau Claire until May 1 is confirmed by the Senate. Grudem resigned.
Mrs. Rhein, 37, is executive secretary of the Wisconsin Grange and a member of the Holstein Association, American Dairy Association and the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., auxiliary.

Under a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency priority, the new district is 21st on a list of over 500 in the nation for funding, which indicated that it should receive federal assistance this year.
The new commission will have taxing and bonding powers which will facilitate building and development of the plant. The former commission had no powers under state statutes and as such did not qualify for state and federal assistance.

equalized valuation of the property from its present $65,200 to $7 million. Commissioners admit that kind of development probably will not occur, but point out that even a less ambitious project will get some public property on the tax rolls and improve the downtown.
When the council approves the project — and the relocation plan that the ARA approved and attached to it Tuesday — ARA Executive Director Eric Hemphill has been given the authority to use up to $500 to attract developers.
Besides the required legal notice advertising for bidders, Hemphill proposed Tuesday the preparation of a brochure for select mailing and the use of national advertising to get word of the project around.
Hemphill was instructed to begin the advertising effort as soon as the council had approved the project plan.
The simply three-page relocation plan approved by the ARA Tuesday specifies the three residential prop-

Health board...

Higgins promised that the question would be settled by the next board meeting, but in the meantime the hearing before the trustees on the dismissal of Eugene Speener as health center superintendent is scheduled for Aug. 21.
Supv. Ted LaPin, chairman of the unified board, said the proposal to reduce its membership has never been brought to the unified board. "Apparently it has been avoided," he said.
He noted that the board seldom has had its full complement of 15 members in its year of existence, but he felt the board had attempted to accomplish its goals. "To take the trustees out would be disunifying," LaPin contended. "It might be easier to run politically, but the total services would be less."
He added that he felt the board "is on its way. We would like to be fully staffed and show what we can do."
His reference to staffing was the vacancies on the board. County Executive Alvin Woehler, who has pushed for a reduction to nine members, has not filled three vacancies caused by resignations and there are now three more vacancies because of terms expiring.

Two former opponents of the large board size also came to its support. Supv. Eugene Kloes charged the reduction proposal was "vindictively motivated," and Supv. John Schreier said that since observing the board in action he has been "impressed by the caliber of people." The vacancies on the board have been the "greatest injustice," he added. Supv. George Schroeder, a member of the unified board, contended the dual role of the trustees created a conflict of interest. "The unified board purchases services from the health center," he said. "If the trustees are on the board they would be purchasing services from themselves."
Noting that a director and three coordinators have been hired, Schroeder said, "We can get along with nine." Supv. Francis Coonen said Outagamie County was only one of nine counties with unified boards of more than nine members. On the other hand, he said, there are 45 counties with nine or fewer members on their unified boards.
Supv. Diane Cusatis went through a detailed chart explanation of what the relationship between the unified board and trustees should be. She urged keeping the 15 members and said "I hope the executive will comply to fill the positions."

Schuh, questioned on whether the trustees could legally be part of the unified board, said the issue has never formally resolved legally. There is some question, he said, whether the statute under which the unified board was created allows for it, but, he added, there is the feeling that it is now permitted under the administrative home rule law.

Irish novelist-playwright Kate O'Brien dies at 76

LONDON (AP) — Kate O'Brien, the Irish novelist and playwright, died Tuesday in a hospital near her home in Faversham, Kent. She was 76.
Miss O'Brien's first novel, "Without My Cloak," was published in 1931. A story of middle-class Irish life, it won the two leading British literary prizes of the day.
Most of her other novels and plays had an Irish background. But her most popular book, "That Lady," published in 1946, was a historical novel set in 16th century Spain.
Miss O'Brien settled in England in 1965, saying she was bored with life in Ireland. The cause of death was not announced.

ties and two public properties where relocation assistance must be provided. The three residences include eight dwelling units and 12 persons.
Efforts to relocate will not begin, however, until the authority has found a developer and the specific proposal from that developer is approved by the council.
The ARA has designed that unique approval procedure — giving the council chance to approve both the original plan and the specific development plan — in an effort to attract council support through cooperation.
The relocation plan, for the purpose of conforming to state law, lists a project completion date of 1977. It allows six months for property acquisition and a year and a half for project construction.
But completion of the project that soon assumes early attraction of a developer and city approval. The ARA has recognized that the saleability of the land will have to wait the test of marketing, and that the soil tests will be a major influence.
If a plan is approved and a developer found, the plan calls for the city to turn over the vocational school and parking lot property to the authority (worth an estimated $534,649) as well as pay site improvement, relocation, appraisal, demolition and administrative costs.
The current ARA ballpark estimates say it will make a profit of over $60,000 on sale of the property at $288,000 after investing about $225,000 into direct project costs.
Adding the estimated costs of the vocational and parking land, however, hikes total city investment in the project to over $800,000. When the $288,000 is subtracted from that, the ARA has estimated, it will take the city about three years of property taxes to recover its investment if the site undergoes major development.

SALAD SEASON

Lillian Mackesy

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Layered or mixed in a melange of flavors, these salads represent the best of foods for an August meal. Both are versatile in that ingredients may be substituted as the season progresses from one fruit to the next or as fresh vegetables reach their peak in the backyard patch. Actually, the mixed vegetable salad is one of the most versatile that stretches throughout the year, adapting to the winter months as readily as the summertime. The same principle can be applied to the fruit melange, too, now that freezers keep fresh fruits in season the whole year long or canned fruits may be used with success.

When it comes to a summer salad, the vegetable or fruit mixtures can be hearty enough for a main course when served with a hot bread, rolls or toast points and a favorite beverage plus a beautiful dessert in the homemade cake, pie or pudding category. As a summer salad, the first point to consider is looks. A pleasing combination of colors is important, every bit as important as taste since the salad is seen before it's eaten and its looks can whet the appetite. In the case of the vegetable salad, use the rosy red radish for color or the deep green pepper, but add the surprise taste and color combination of pimiento-stuffed olives and tomato slices or chunks. Add the pleasing texture of crisp bacon bits and chopped sweet Bermuda onion with shredded lettuce. The result is superb with a simply made blender mayonnaise. Arrange cooked carrots, celery sliced diagonally, cooked peas fresh or frozen, onion, and so on in layers, preferably in a glass bowl to show the layers off in all their lovely colors.

Fruits in season create the Fiesta Melange—melon balls, blueberries, grapes in a variety of colors and taste, orange segments, buttery slices of avocado, fresh plums and nectarines, strawberries when available and with any and all selections, the plump, shimmering ruby-red maraschino cherries. Served in attractive dishes, the dressings may be three-fold so guests or family may make a delicious choice.

Above, the layers of vegetables, olives and lettuce make a colorful appearance when served in a glass bowl.

The fruits may change with the seasons in the salad below, but the salads always are colorful when combined with red maraschino cherries.

Remember even the simplest salad can be a great success as long as the ingredients are cold and crisp. This applies to cooked vegetables as well as raw ones. If the vegetable salad is prepared ahead of time, put the dressing on top of the layers to keep it from getting soggy.

Here is the collection of salad ideas and dressings to make a summer day or evening just a bit more refreshing.

LAYERED SALAD

2 cups sliced carrots
1 pkg. frozen green peas
1 medium head lettuce, shredded
Salt and pepper
1 cup sliced celery
½ cup chopped Bermuda onion
¾ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
1 pound bacon, cooked crisp and crumbled
1-½ cups blender mayonnaise
1 teaspoon sugar
Parsley, olives for garnish

Cook carrots in small amount of boiling water until just crisp-tender; drain and chill. Cook peas according to package directions (or use fresh peas and cook until crisp-tender). Drain peas and chill. Place lettuce in large glass or salad bowl; season with salt and pepper. Arrange carrots, celery, peas, onions and two-thirds cup sliced olives and crisply cooked and crumbled bacon in layers over shredded lettuce. Spread 1 cup mayonnaise over top; sprinkle with sugar. Garnish with parsley and olives. Serve with remaining ½ cup mayonnaise.

BLENDER MAYONNAISE

3 egg yolks
3 tablespoons wine vinegar
1-½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup salad oil
1 cup salad oil

In electric blender container, place egg yolks, wine vinegar, salt, dry mustard and half-cup salad oil. Cover; turn blender on high, then immediately turn blender off. Remove cover; turn blender to low speed. Immediately start adding remaining 1 cup salad oil in steady stream; blend until thoroughly mixed. Chill until ready to use. Recipe makes one and one-half cups mayonnaise.

TOMATO-OLIVE SALSA FOR AVOCADO

2 large tomatoes
½ cup sliced stuffed olives
2 tablespoons chopped scallions or green onions
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup vinegar
½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon basil leaves
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
1 clove garlic, crushed
3 ripe avocados
Lettuce

Peel and dice fresh tomatoes. Combine with sliced olives (pimiento-stuffed olives), chopped onions, oil (olive oil may be used, if preferred), vinegar and seasonings. Chill several hours. Drain, reserving dressing. Halve and peel avocados; remove seeds. Arrange avocado halves on beds of lettuce; fill with salsa or drained tomato-olive-seasoning mixture. Serve with reserved dressing from salsa.

PIQUANT CHERRY DRESSING

¾ cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ can frozen orange juice concentrate ½ can frozen pineapple juice concentrate ½ cup red maraschino cherry syrup
Dash salt
1 teaspoon dried mint leaves

Gradually stir water in cornstarch in saucepan. Blend in one-third cup orange juice concentrate and one-third cup pineapple juice concentrate. This is about one-half of 6-ounce can of frozen juice concentrate. Add cherry syrup, salt and mint leaves. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Remove from heat and cool. Chill thoroughly before serving. Recipe makes about 2 cups dressing.

LEMON-NUTMEG DRESSING

¼ teaspoon nutmeg, plus
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Dash salt
2 tablespoons sugar

Blend ¼ teaspoon nutmeg with remaining ingredients. Chill until serving time. Stir dressing until smooth, then pour into serving dish or dressing boat and sprinkle with reserved nutmeg. Recipe makes about one cup dressing.

CHERRY SOUR CREAM DRESSING

1 cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup drained, chopped red maraschino cherries
1 tablespoon syrup from cherries
1-½ tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon grated lemon peel
Dash salt

Blend all ingredients in small bowl. Chill until ready to use. Recipe makes 1-¼ cups dressing.

Woman free after 45 years in institutions

OREGON, Wis. (AP) — Because welfare doctors viewed epilepsy as a form of madness in 1929, Eva Schielke spent 43 years confined in Wisconsin mental institutions.

Today Miss Schielke, 64, is out on her own, and doctors say she should not have been hospitalized at all—let alone for practically her entire adult life.

Miss Schielke, released from state custody in 1973 after a state inspector talked with her and found her competent, is remorseful but not bitter over her lost life. She is happy she was freed in time to salvage a few years for herself.

"Look at this," she said, holding a savings passbook in the living room of the home where she works as a housekeeper in this Madison suburb. "I was penniless when they released me. Now look how much I've saved."

The money isn't much, but it's the difference between heaven and hell, confinement and freedom for Eva Schielke.

She was hospitalized in 1929 at age 19 after she had become violently ill while working for a Milwaukee family.

Doctors said she never would be well enough to return to society and shunted her to the first of several mental institutions, where she performed back breaking labor and for several years received no treatment for her seizures.

From 1939 to 1972, she was at the Columbia County Mental Hospital at Wycocoma. During her 33 years there, she finally began receiving medication to control her epilepsy. However, officials refused to release her.

"I was a good worker," Miss Schielke said. "They didn't want to lose me."

Her hands are raw and her back stooped from decades of washing and sewing nightshirts, picking berries and bathing bedridden patients in the institutions.

She has abandoned hope of finding a husband. The hope first began fading after she had been locked in solitary confinement for 18 months for arguing with a nurse who ordered her not to talk with or even look at male patients.

She once told a doctor she thought she had a broken pelvis. Three days later, he told her she was correct.

The darkness of her years behind institutions walls of brights, however, when Miss Schielke looks out the window at children playing on a sunny sidewalk. She realizes confinement finally is behind her.

She remembers that when she met the state inspector who became interested in her case, a hospital official said, "Oh, don't listen to her. She's just an old epileptic."

State records of her case show she never should have been treated as a

200 plus recipes by nation's top chefs

There's exciting news on the cookbook front with the announcement that a 300-page cookbook prepared by 11 of the nation's foremost chefs will be published this fall. This is no ordinary cookbook, one to stash upon a shelf for every day cooking. Instead, it's a special one, compiled with gustatory dedication by a group of men and women who "care passionately about food and wine, who spend their lives learning about and enjoying them."

This does not mean that the ordinary cook can't enjoy the book. He or she certainly can, but will find ways to pull a certain and everyday recipe right out of the humdrums and make something of it. However, these recipes are special—favorites.

Actually, the book is excellent reading, a fact that many a cookbook collector and searcher for new food ideas will recognize. It's written in chapters that represent the best of the subject because this group of internationally known gourmet chefs have taken his and her own favorite subject and worked it into a chapter, along with favorite recipes to prove their talents and knowledge.

Who are these people? Each name alone is noted as outstanding. Taken all together they have put out "The Great Cooks Cookbook," being published by Ferguson-Doubleday at the retail price of $12.50.

There's James A. Beard, foremost authority on food and drink, who writes on menus and tells how to put together a memorable occasion in entertaining. Alexis Bespaloff, authority and lecturer on wines, follows this subject in his chapter; painter Edward Giobbi writes about pasta from family background and his own expertise. Others, each following a chapter on the subject he likes best and knows, include Jacques Pepin, American who once served as chef to Charles de Gaulle; Helen McCully, food editor of House Beautiful; Felipe Rojas-Lombardi, whose column on food and wines appears in newspapers coast-to-coast; Philip S. Brown, collector of books on foods and wines; John Clancy, teacher, lecturer and noted test-chef;

George Lang, author and adviser to restaurant chains; Leon Lianides, mental case. The records condemn her handling by everyone from doctors and welfare officials to nurses.

None of that does Eva Schielke any good now, for there are no happy memories of those 43 years—except for one isolated instance.

"When they told me I was leaving, I was very, very happy," she said.

owner of the famed Coach House Restaurant in New York and who writes on fish and seafoods, his specialty; Maurice Moore—Betty, former London restaurateur and now New York teacher.

This extraordinary group formed the Good Cooking School in order to work together, share and unify their knowledge. The result is this extraordinary, beautiful cookbook bringing together between two covers a variance of cooking style, attitudes and real dedicated talent in its finest sense.

Corrected recipe for Bread Dough Dessert

There were errors in the dairy recipe of Mrs. Norman Julius, route 1, Greenfield, published last week. This is the correct version, showing the use of one-third cup of butter, one-third teaspoon baking soda and a full teaspoon of cinnamon.

The recipe is from a collection of old family treasures, which Mrs. Julius uses often. The cup of bread dough called for in the recipe comes from the batch of sponge when Mrs. J. is baking bread. That's what makes the cake so easy to make and an extra surprise for the family, according to Mrs. Julius. Here is the corrected recipe:

BREAD DOUGH CAKE

- 1 cup butter
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 egg
  - 1 cup bread dough
  - 1 cup milk, minus 2 tablespoons
  - 1-1/4 cups flour
  - 1/2 teaspoon soda
  - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
  - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1 cup raisins
- Chocolate Cream Frosting

Cream butter and sugar; add egg, bread dough and sour milk. Stir to blend. Add dry ingredients and raisins, blending well. Pour into 9 x 12 greased pan; cover and let rise for 1 hour in warm place, free from drafts. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven about 30 minutes. Frost with Chocolate Cream Frosting.

CHOCOLATE CREAM FROSTING

- 1 pkg. pre-melted chocolate
- 3 ounces cream cheese
- 1-1/2 cups confectioners sugar
- Milk or cream

Blend together chocolate, cream cheese and sugar. Add just enough milk or cream to spread.

Ann Landers

Old laugh rerun

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on the letter from the woman who had had an affair with her boss and became pregnant. She married the nice, quiet fellow she was engaged to and no one was any the wiser when she gave birth to a little girl.

Now, 18 years later, the daughter brings home a guy she's in love with and it turns out to be the boss's son. So, they are half-brother and sister. The mother was frantic and wanted to know what to do.

Maybe she doesn't have anything to worry about and I'll tell you why. The situation brings to mind a joke that was big on campus a few years ago. It went like this: A young girl sobs to her mother, "Daddy says I can't marry Joe because he's my brother." The mother replies, "Honey, don't pay him no nevermind. That man ain't your daddy."

In case you haven't had a laugh yet today, this could be it.—Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Mont: I had that laugh 30 years ago, but thanks for a rerun.

Dear Ann Landers: I just attended a wedding shower. There were 50 guests present. This meant 50 gifts.

The bride-to-be had 50 signed cards on the living room table. They all read the same—no names, just: "Thank you very much for the gift. John and I will enjoy using it in our new home."

I felt insulted being thanked that way. Any person who goes out and selects a shower gift deserves to be thanked individually, in the mail. When I told her so, she said, "Do you know what postage costs these days?" I replied, "The postage on the invitation didn't break anybody, did it?"

Thank-you notes mean a great deal. Every person likes to feel that the gift selected has special meaning. It took me almost two weeks to write all the thank-you notes for the gifts I received at my wedding shower, but I wouldn't have done it any other way for the world. Am I nuts?—Disgusted

Dear D.: No, you aren't nuts. That bride-to-be is a bit of a clod, and apparently her mother doesn't know much about social amenities, either. Too bad.

Dear Ann Landers: I have always wanted to learn to drive a car, but somehow I kept putting it off. I am 59 years old and decided to procrastinate no longer.

I asked my husband if he would teach me. He said, "No," so I enrolled in a driving school. I signed up and thought I was doing very well. I took 40 lessons, one hour each.

Well, Ann, I just failed my driving test for the third time. I do fine with the teacher beside me, but when I'm with the person who is giving the test, I freeze up and can't remember a thing.

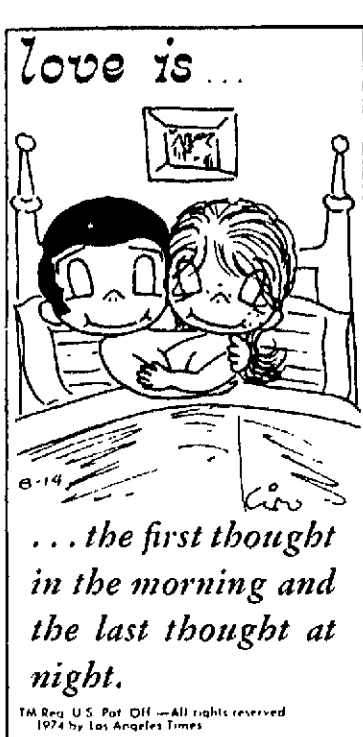

Everyone says I should keep trying, but my husband won't give me any more money for instruction. He insists that anyone who can't learn to drive after 40 lessons should give up.

I hate to keep on asking my neighbors to drive me places. When I do, I frequently offer to buy gas. Should I get a part-time job and earn some money of my own and take more lessons? Please be frank.—Feeling Foolish

Dear Friend: I happen to be a non-swimmer—simply never could learn. You, perhaps, are a non-driver. It's nothing to be ashamed of.

Forget about the part-time job and more lessons. Continue to offer to buy gas for your nice neighbors and an occasional gift would be nice too.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654. (Copyright 1974)

Police & fire beat

Kurt Hungerford, 13, route 2, Black Creek, was listed in fair condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital after he was injured in a pickup truck-minibike accident on County Trunk A near Mayflower Drive, Town of Black Creek, just after 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Hungerford was treated for a broken leg and multiple bumps and bruises.

Police said he was riding the motorbike along the shoulder of A and suddenly pulled left into the side of the pickup truck, which was going past him at a reduced speed. The truck was driven by Donald E. Van Straten, 42, route 2, New London.

The minibike went out of control after striking the truck.

FREEDOM — Damage was estimated at $125 after vandalism to a telephone booth at State 55 and County Trunk E.

Police said someone smashed the phone dial, pulled out wires, damaged a shelf and attempted unsuccessfully to pry out the coin box. The vandalism was reported Tuesday.

Richard G. Theiss, 301 W. Prospect Ave., told police someone stole his 1964 model car from his driveway early Tuesday. The vehicle is valued at $100.

Appleton police are investigating the apparent theft of several articles of electric spray painting equipment from an apartment house construction site in the 1800 block of W. Marquette Street.

James L. Olsen, Green Bay, reported the theft Tuesday. He said the articles were valued together at about $2,000.

Berg resigns from DA office

William Berg, who served since late June as an assistant district attorney for Outagamie County, has resigned, according to Dist. Atty. John Ensley.

Berg, 25, informed Ensley of his decision by letter during the weekend and said he was leaving for "personal reasons." Berg had been hired as the third assistant, effective June 24.

Ensley said he expects no difficulty filling the position. He said he already has one applicant with work experience. Ensley said he hoped the position would be filled by next week.

Earl Kubale accepts executive position with Boy Scouts in Indiana

Earl Kubale, executive of the former Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, has accepted the position of Scout executive in South Bend, Ind., effective Sept. 1.

Kubale is the director of field services of the newly formed Bay Lakes Council and has served in the Fox Valley since 1966.

In his new post he will be responsible for the scouting program serving more than 16,000 Scouts in northern Indiana.

Teen Twisters are preparing for state square and round dance convention activities Aug. 16-18 at Appleton High School-East.

The Appleton Twisters are in charge of decorations and concessions in the Youth Hospitality Room 203. Public is invited to attend any of the dances.

Times for the dances are 7 to 11:30 p.m. Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 11:30

Nutrition course at AHS West offers 3 credits

A home economics extension course in "Recent Advances in Nutrition" will be offered through the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point (UW-SP) this fall at Appleton High School-West.

The three credit graduate course will meet each Monday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. beginning Sept. 9 and ending Dec. 16.

Dr. Douglas Poe, a new faculty member of the UW-SP school of home economics, will be teaching the course. Dr. Poe received his Ph.D. in nutritional sciences from the University of Illinois in 1972 and was an assistant professor of biology and home economics at South Carolina State and has participated in three nutritional surveys including Danville, Ill. school children, the black population of Holmes County, Miss., and the Alaskan Eskimo. Poe also has had extensive training in electron microscopy.

Advance registration for the course — home ec. 753 — by mail is requested since classes with less than 15 reservations by Aug. 27 may be cancelled. The address is Office of extended services UW-SP, Stevens Point.

Fees (due the first week of class) are $36.40 per credit for graduate students p.m. Saturday, and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Teen Twisters meet every second and fourth Tuesday. The dance club has been meeting for 4 1/2 years and promotes square and round dancing. Callers for the group are Frank Tillman,

Petition protests night-time parties

HARRISON — A petition with 18 signatures was presented to the town board Friday night asking for a special meeting to discuss means of restricting use of town-owned property on Firelane and the edge of Lake Winnebago.

Property owners have frequently complained about noise in the early hours of the morning and illegal parking in the area.

The petition noted it was not the property owners' intention to stop lake access for boats in summer and cars in winter but wanted the late hour "partying" stopped, more policing and possibly some obstruction placed on the road to stop the "roaring back and forth" when people should be sleeping.

Town chairman George Schwalbach said he felt it was a matter of enforcing the ordinance restricting parking on the road. Obstruction cannot be placed

Sewer system bids top estimate

WALPACA — Bids were opened on the proposed northeast industrial sanitary sewer project at a special council meeting Monday and were found to be from 15 to 22 per cent more than the estimated cost of $400,000.

The apparent low bidder was Holiday Court Corp., Athens, with a base bid of $422,676 and a bid of $72,000 on the lift

Calumet slates hearing on two zoning petitions

CHILTON — The Calumet County Zoning Board of Adjustments will consider two petitions in a public hearing at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the courthouse.

To be considered are the petitions of Raymond Bies and Ray Wenzel. Bies is requesting a variance in the definition of subdivision to permit the creation of a lot where the existing farmstead buildings are located. Wenzel requests a variance to the Calumet County land subdivision ordinance requirement of 66-foot right-of-way widths for all local streets.

All persons desiring to appear and be heard either for or against either or both petitions should appear at the hearing.

Steak fry relocated

CLINTONVILLE — The St. Martin's steak fry previously scheduled for Sunday at W. A. Oer Park has been moved to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Caskey, 44 Green Tree Road.

Shawano, Clintonville move to BABA east finals

Shawano and Clintonville captured the BABA East Division championship on Sunday in the Badger Amateur Baseball Association playoffs. Clintonville, the eastern division champion, defeated Shawano 4-1 in the championship game at Shawano.

Shawano's pitcher, Ray Resch, had a two-run homer in the eighth inning to lead his team to a 4-1 victory. Clintonville's pitcher, Larry Resch, had a two-run homer in the eighth inning to lead his team to a 4-1 victory.

The game was held at Shawano on Sunday, August 11, 1974. The game was the first of two games in the championship series. The second game was held at Clintonville on Monday, August 12, 1974. Clintonville won the second game 4-1, securing the championship.

Four injured in one-car crash at Chilton

CHILTON — Four young persons were injured in a one-car accident at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday evening east of Maple Street in the City of Chilton.

Driver of the car, Craig H. Schaub, 16, 419 Memorial Drive, told police that one of his female passengers had passed out and fell against his arm, causing him to lose control of his auto and strike a power pole.

Injured passengers were Janet L. Brucker, 13, 24 Spring St., bumps to her leg; Joe A. Frune, 16, 314 Memorial Drive, broken nose; Chad M. Daun, 16, 309 Reed St., lacerations to his arm and a fractured leg and Becky Rabida, 13, 24 E. Main St., a broken jaw and multiple contusions.

All the injured were taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital by hospital ambulance.

New London buck contest, auto show set

NEW LONDON — An auto show and flea market, the second annual Big Buck contest and a display class for local merchants are among promotions being planned by the New London Chamber of Commerce.

The outdoor auto show, featuring 1975 models from all five local car dealers, will be featured with the Flea Market Oct. 5.

Besides new cars, new commercial and farm trucks and perhaps antique autos will be displayed.

Tickets for the Big Buck contest are being distributed to chamber members, and will be sold until the opening of the gun season in November. Prizes for the deer, which can be shot anywhere in Wisconsin, will be based on the largest rack.

A $500 first, $100 second, $50 third, $25 fourth, $15 fifth and $10 sixth place prize will replace last year's single cash prize.

The chamber is also sponsoring a display class for merchants that started Monday evening. There will be another session in January, showing merchants how to use lighting and painting to promote their products.

Birnamwood ties for second place in BABA north

Birnamwood blanked Almon, 5-0 Sunday to tie Wittenberg for second place in makeup action in the northern division of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association. The win also dropped Almon into a tie for fourth place with Eland. The two teams will have a play-off game this week for the fourth place spot in the northern division play-offs, which start Sunday.

Birnamwood will be host for the winner of the Almon-Eland game, while Wittenberg will be at Hatley. Birnamwood was awarded second place and Wittenberg third because Birnamwood beat Wittenberg twice during the regular season.

John Pieper hurled a three-hitter for Birnamwood as he fanned 16 while walking just three. Rod Zienert was the losing pitcher, allowing seven hits. Larry Resch had a three-run homer in the first inning and Ray Resch had a two-run shot in the eighth to account for all five runs. Larry Resch had two hits for Birnamwood while Ed Matz had two for Almon.

Hatley finished the regular season in first place with a 12-2 record. Wittenberg and Birnamwood were tied for second at 10-4. Almon and Eland are now 5-5. Elderton and Amasa finished the season with 4-10 records while Matamoras was 3-12.

Fiddler opens farm day at Manawa

MANAWA — Agriculture Farm Day will be opened by championship fiddler Lawrence Fluharty of Colliers, West Virginia. The scene will be set at the Triangle at 9 p.m. Thursday after the ice-cream social at the Manawa Middle School.

Joining him will be the Blue Grass Musicians and the entire group will play every evening at the Triangle beginning Thursday.

Saturday they will be joined by the Marquardt's, a rock-country musical group who will participate in the Centennial parade slated to start at 11 a.m. and who will perform at the Rodeo Grounds prior to the speech by United States Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz.

During the day, an old-time machinery display will be available at the rodeo grounds along with a pony ring for the children. The Symco Threshermen will be on hand and again on Saturday when they will put on an old-time thresheree.

A softball tournament between 24 teams in Class B fast pitch also is underway at Lindsay Athletic Park.

An old-fashioned ice-cream social sponsored by the Manawa Jayettes will start at 8 p.m. Saturday. Along with the event will be an auction at which time, an oil painting of the Centennial Tree will be conducted. The painting was created by Wynne Riste, former Manawa resident.

Storekeepers also have created interesting parts of the history of the city in dress, tools, pictures and antiques.

Annual picnic Sunday

DARBOY — Holy Angels congregation's annual public picnic will be Sunday. Chicken booyah will be served after 11 a.m. and a ham dinner at 5 p.m., both in the church hall.

Hamburgers and bratwurst will be available on the parish grounds. There will be games and prizes and a beer garden with live music.

Maryland governor wed half hour after divorce

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Marvin Mandel has married Jeanne Blackstone Dorsey, a half hour after his first marriage was formally dissolved by a judge.

The unannounced but not unexpected marriage was performed in a 15-minute ceremony on Tuesday at Har Sinai Congregation in Baltimore by Rabbi Abraham Shusterman, a friend of Mandel and the man who supervised the 37-year-old bride's conversion to Judaism.

Mandel, 54, left his first wife, Barbara "Bootsie" Mandel, on July 3, 1973, saying he was divorcing her after 32 years of marriage to wed his long-time girlfriend.

The former Mrs. Mandel resisted the governor's marriage plans and refused to move out of the executive mansion for several months after Mandel's announcement.

Mrs. Gertrude Snow, 'mother of 50,' dies

Mrs. Gertrude Snow, who for many years was a mother to scores of foster children, died Tuesday at the age of 76 at the Appleton Extended Care Center.

In a Post-Crescent Christmas story in 1970, she was called "The Mother of 50," which included four of her own children.

She began taking in foster children in her home in 1941. Her first were orthopedic children from outside Appleton who attended Morgan School and lived with the Snows from Monday to Friday.

Two years later, she contacted the welfare department and began taking in other children in need of care. Her first foster child at that time was Robert Christjohn, now a teacher at Wilson Junior High School in Appleton. He came to her at the age of 9 months.

Mrs. Snow was also active in the Boy Scout movement and was honored by the Scouts with the Eagles. Snow herself was active in Scouting, and served as a commissioner of the Valley Council. He died in 1951.

She is survived by three daughters, a son, a foster son, 11 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Bretschneider-Trettn Funeral Home with the Rev. Dr. John Felbie of First Congregational United

Congress to consider return to standard time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Standard time will return for four months beginning the last Sunday in October if Congress passes a bill cleared for floor action by the House Commerce Committee.

The committee approved the measure Tuesday and it could be on the House floor this week. It calls for daylight saving time to resume on the last Sunday in February.

Year-round daylight time was enacted last year as an energy-saving measure.

Gerald A. Stoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Stoll, 79 S. Meadows Drive, and Michael P. Wendt, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wendt, 1907 N. Edge-wood Ave., both Appleton, are partici-pating in a summer phase of training under the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

They will spend three weeks at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Tex., receiving instruction related to naval aviation. Both will take an active part in instructional flights and will attend classes on subjects such as aviation, physiology, aerodynamics and naviga-tion.

After this phase, they will return to Naval Amphibious Base, Coronado, Calif.

Both Stoll, a student at the Univer-sity of Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind., and Wendt, a student at Marquette University, are 1972 graduates of Xa-vier High School.

They will attend Officer Candidate School upon graduation.

Cadet Reid W. Peot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Peot, 1620 S. Telulah Ave., Appleton, has completed a six-week military leadership training course at Ft. Riley, Kan.

Peot is a student at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville.

Army Pvt. Michael J. Hoffman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Hoff-man, 1518 E. Plaza Drive, Appleton, has completed an 11-week engineer equipment maintenance course at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

The course prepares students to per-form maintenance on powered bridg-ing, engineer construction and earth-moving equipment.

Pvt. Steven H. Boggess, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Juel D. Boggess, 1006 N. Badger Ave., Appleton, has completed a seven-week course on recovery and evacuation at the Army Ordnance Cen-ter and school, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.

Coast Guard Seaman Scott G. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Walker, 200 River Drive, Appleton, has completed the Electronics Technician School at Governors Island, N.Y.

Walker is a former student at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire.

Airman Joann M. Niesen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Niesen, 218 W. Ninth St., Kaukauna, has graduated with honors at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the Air Training Command's basic course for electronic specialists.

Niesen, who received instruction in communications and electronics sys-tems principles, is remaining at Kees-ler AFB for advance training. She is a 1973 graduate of kaukauna High School.

Airman Daniel L. Burton, son of Mrs. Patricia R. Dominowski, 424 S. Schae-fer St., Appleton, has graduated at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the Air Force aircraft radio repairman course conducted by the Air Training Com-mand.

Burton is a 1973 graduate of Appleton High School-East.

Naval Aviation Officer Candidate Robert J. Hameister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hameister, 1524 N. Viola St., Appleton, has begun basic flight training at Pensacola, Fla.

When he completes Officer Candidate School, Hameister will be commis-sioned an ensign and begin more than a year of intensive ground and inflight training leading to his designation as a Naval Aviator.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 14, the 226th day of 1974. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced the uncon-ditional surrender of Japan, ending World War II.

On this date:

In 1784, the first Russian colony in Alaska was founded on Kodiak Island.

In 1848, the Oregon Territory was or-ganized.

In 1900, the Boxer Rebellion in China ended as U.S. Marines helped capture Peking.

In 1935, Congress passed the Social Security Act.

In 1941, during World War II, the shipboard signing of the Atlantic Charter by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill was announced.

Schreiber accuses ICC of discrimination

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The In-terstate Commerce Commission dis-criminates against Great Lakes ports, Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber contended today.

Schreiber said in remarks for a meeting of the Green Bay Harbor Com-mission that ICC-approved rates make it cheaper to ship Midwestern grain from Gulf or East Coast ports than from the Great Lakes.

The Maritime Act of 1970 also dis-criminates against the inland ports be-cause it subsidizes U.S. flag carriers, none of which operates on the Great Lakes, Schreiber said.

Oulu man, 34, charged with 1st degree murder

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP) — Marvin Johnson, 34, of the Town of Oulu, was charged Monday with first degree murder and arson in the weekend shooting death of Hillard Tullberg.

Tullberg, 48, was shot to death early Sunday when he returned to his Town of Lakeside home in Douglas County, police said. They said a fire was set in Tullberg's home after the shooting.

30-day outlook

This is how the nation's precipitation and temperature look for the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service. (AP wirephoto map)

Much more like summer

Wisconsin weather, known for its fickleness, has been turning entire seasons around this year as late summer continues to act more like late spring. Thursday, however, temperatures will increase slightly and higher humidity will make things typically sticky.

According to the U.S. Weather Service at Green Bay, tonight will be increasingly cloudy with a chance of showers and thunderstorms late tonight and a low in the low 60s. Thursday will bring variable cloudiness, warmer temperatures and higher humidity, with a 30 per cent chance of showers or thunderstorms. Highs will be in the low 80s and winds will blow from the east-southeast at 8-15 miles per hour.

Friday's outlook calls for more showers or thunderstorms, with cooler temperatures beginning Saturday or Sunday. Highs will be in the mid 70s to mid 80s Friday and mostly in the 70s Saturday and Sunday. Lows will be in the mid 50s to mid 60s Friday and mostly in the 50s Saturday and Sunday.

The Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. recorded a high of 80 and a low of 59 in Appleton for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a.m. today. Winds were from the east at 8 miles per hour, the barometer was at 30.34 and rising, relative humidity was 72 per cent and the dew point rested at 59 degrees. No measurable precipitation had been recorded.

High temperatures Tuesday ranged from 86 at Baldwin to 70 at Superior, Racine and Land O' Lakes, while overnight lows varied from 48 at Rhineland to 62 at Baldwin.

Pirates shell Cincinnati

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Sparky Anderson may put in for combat pay.

"When Al Oliver hit his homer to make it 12-2, I yelled out: 'Tell Danny Murtaugh we surrender,'" the Cincinnati Manager noted with chagrin Tuesday night.

But the Pirates didn't stop the heavy artillery. They continued shelling the Reds and went on to a 14-3 rout on 21 hits.

"That was just good, old-fashioned country hardball," Anderson said. "The ball hit hardest all night was a single to center by Willie Stargell. If that would have hit concrete, it would have moved it three feet."

But Stargell wasn't the only Red-killer. Richie Zisk drove in a run for the 10th straight game, and Al Oliver drove in five.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros stopped the Chicago Cubs 3-1; the Atlanta Braves stopped the Montreal Expos 4-3; the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the San Francisco Giants 6-5; the New York Mets turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-0 and the San Diego Padres beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1.

Zisk and Ed Kirkpatrick each drove in two runs during a five-run Pittsburgh first inning and the Pirates kept punishing the Reds' pitching staff.

The victory pushed Pittsburgh over the .500 mark for the first time this season and gave them eight victories in their last nine games and 22 in their last 31.

Astros 3, Cubs 1

Cesar Cedeno's leadoff triple sparked a two-run ninth inning that carried Houston over Chicago. Milt May followed Cedeno's triple with a single to snap a 1-1 tie.

Braves 4, Expos 3

Dusty Baker belted his 14th home run of the year and an RBI single that highlighted a three-run fourth inning, leading Atlanta over Montreal for the Braves' fifth straight win.

Atlanta's Ron Reed, 8-6, scattered eight hits for the victory.

Phillies 6, Giants 5

Mike Schmidt ripped a pair of towering home runs and drove in three runs, leading Philadelphia past San Francisco.

Schmidt hit a two-run homer in the first inning and a solo shot in the third, his 27th, as the Phillies built a 6-1 lead against San Francisco starter Jim Barr.

Mets 3, Dodgers 0

Left-hander Jon Matlack tossed a four-hitter and Jerry Grote's first home run in three months helped New York over Los Angeles.

Matlack, 11-9, struck out eight and walked none in recording his fifth shut-out of the season.

Padres 2, Cardinals 1

Dave Winfield knocked in two runs with a single and double, leading San Diego over St. Louis. San Diego's Lowell Palmer, 2-4, called on to replace injured starter Vicente Romo with two out in the first inning, halted the Cardinals on six hits, including Reggie Smith's 16th home run.

Amateur Mark Bemowski retains lead in Open

MISHICOT, Wis. (AP) — Mark Bemowski says he prefers to feel his embarrassed opponents' hot breath on his heels.

Bemowski, 28, an amateur from Menomonee Falls, held the lead in the state open golf tournament at the midway point Tuesday, threatening to deprive the professionals of the title for the first time in 15 years.

He carded 67-72—139, a stroke ahead of pro Bill Giese of Fond du Lac, but wasn't the only amateur making it competitive for the pros.

Amateur Curt Janeky of Manitowoc and pro Bobby Brue of Mequon were tied for third at 141, with amateur John Pallin of Fond du Lac a stroke behind in fifth.

Bemowski denied there is a disadvantage to being the leader at whom the guns are aimed during subsequent rounds.

"I would rather go in as a leader than to have to come from behind," he said.

He had to play a little catchup in Tuesday's round, saying he had "great opportunities to make birdies" in the early holes "but the shots just wouldn't fall."

He had a bogey on the 10th. Then he birdied the 12th, and played par the rest of the way, showing good control.

Brue was the slow to win the open as an amateur. That was in 1959. He is seeking his fourth title as a pro.

Amateur Larry Tiziani of Madison had shot 67 Monday to share the five-under-par lead with Bemowski.

But he tumbled to a six-way tie for 10th place Tuesday with 145.

Evert sisters win

TORONTO (AP) — Twentyseven years ago, a collegian from Notre Dame named Jimmy Evert beat Emery Neale of Seattle in five sets for the Canadian Open tennis title.

"We were strictly amateur in those days," Evert recalled Tuesday. "I got my room and board and $25 expense money."

That was in Vancouver, B.C., in 1947.

This week, his daughters, Chris, 19, and Jeanne, 16, are prime contenders for the women's singles crown in the same Canadian Open, but now the prize money totals $130,000.

The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., sisters could divide $9,600 if they meet in Sunday's singles final, a good possibility.

Top-seeded Chris, reigning Wimbledon and U.S. Clay Court champion, rolled past Marie Nasuelli of Italy 6-1, 6-2 in the opening round at the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club Tuesday. She has gone eight tournaments on clay-type surfaces without a single loss and even so says: "I don't think I'm playing my best tennis."

Jeanne, the third seed who says she is "kinda honored" to be Chris' sister, beat an inconsistent Patti Hogan 6-3, 6-1.

Ilie Nastase, who won this tournament in 1972, was a victim of Bill

1,800 youngsters play ARD baseball

Champions have been crowned in the 1974 Appleton Recreation Department baseball program that attracted 1,800 boys and girls. All final playoff games were held recently at Goodland Field.

Tusler Pontiac, Appleton Foxes and the Wrens won boys championships. Tusler (of the Roosevelt diamond) beat Cloud Buick (Hoover), 9-7, for Cub League honors. The Foxes (Franklin No. 2) stopped Badger Highways (Franklin No. 1), 8-6, in the Cadet League. The Wrens (Roosevelt) beat the Parrots (Huntley), 17-2, in the T League.

The Kittens and the Panthers won girls championships. The Kittens (Lions diamond) beat the Beetles (Wilson), 23-9 Major T honors. The Panthers (Kiwanis) stopped the Badgers (Wilson), 24-8, in the Minor T.

A total of 1,325 boys participated in the 16 divisions of the four types of boys leagues. There were 97 teams, with the T League fielding the most — 35.

In the three girls circuits (including the 7-team Girls Baseball League) there were 34 teams and 475 participants.

Graves, Grant place second

The Appleton YMCA Swim Club's Chuck Graves and Bob Grant won second places in the recent Region 7 AAU swim championships at Mason City, Ia.

Graves, winning in the 15-17 age group, was runnerup in the 200-meter freestyle in 2:05.6. He finished sixth in the 400-meter freestyle.

Grant (9-10 group) placed second in the 100-meter breaststroke, swimming the event in 1:30.6, a time that was .015 better than the old record. Mark Buran (11-12) placed ninth in the 50-meter free and 10th in the 50-meter back. Wisconsin swimmers won the regional title over those from five other states.

Appleton's Adriana Holy placed sixth in the regional diving meet at Omaha, Neb., with a total of 234 points.

McNeill leads All-Stars

MONTICELLO, N.Y. — Larry McNeill, second-year pro of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, scored 15 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to lead a Ray Scottcoached All-Star team to a 79-48 victory over a squad coached by Red Auerbach Tuesday night in the 16th annual Maurice Stokes Memorial basketball game at Kutshers Country Club.

The game also marked the return to active play after an absence of a almost 1½ years for Wilt Chamberlain, the player-coach of San Diego Conquistadores. Chamberlain played 25 minutes, didn't score a point but was his usual intimidating self on defense.

Other top scorers for the Scott team were Bill Schaeffer of the New York Nets with 13 points and Kevin Porter of the Washington Bullets with 12.

Doug Collins, the first-round pick in the National Basketball Association, drafted by the 76ers a year ago, led the losers with 10 points. The game was decided in the final quarter when the winners netted 24 points and held their opponents to four.

Bing received the fifth annual Maurice Stokes Award given to the player who most typifies the courage and determination of the late Cincinnati Royals star. Bing recovered from a detached retina and made the All-NBA second team a year ago.

John Whitlinger tops young pro

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Whitlinger, the current college singles champion, expects no miracles this summer as he brushes racquets with the world tennis pros.

"I'm not ready to turn pro. I want to be a really good player when I do. Now I'm only average," said the 20-year-old Stanford University junior from Neenah, Wis.

"I just want to get my feet wet. I want respect from the big guys. It's a learning, fun year for me," said Whitlinger.

The 5-foot-8, 175-pound blond junior rallied to defeat Fred McNair, a young pro from Chevy Chase, Md., 7-6, 6-2, 6-4 in an opening match Tuesday.

Even if he succeeds here, Whitlinger has no intention to turn pro.

His main concern is winning a second straight college singles championship next summer.

Whitlinger also shared the National Collegiate Athletic Association doubles title this summer and his partner, Jim Delaney of Potomac, Md., also advanced into the second round. Delaney trimmed Dick Dell of Bethesda, Md., 6-3, 6-0.

Only two seeded players saw action

Tuesday with No. 6 Vijay Amritraj of India and No. 7 Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico scoring opening-round triumphs.

Amritraj ousted Lee Merry of Watsonville, Calif., 6-4, 6-2, and Pasarell polished off Steve Krulvitz of Baltimore, Md., 7-6, 7-5.

The only upset of any proportion among the first 10 matches came when England's John Lloyd eliminated Haroon Rahim of Pakistan 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Rahim had reached the quarter-finals of the 1973 tournament.

The three matches Tuesday night involving the top three seeded players in the 32-man field were washed out.

Third-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., was leading Roy Barth of San Diego, Calif., 4-1 in the first set when rain interrupted play. Also washed out were matches involving top-seeded Arthur Ashe and second-seeded Tom Gorman, whose opening round duels were being played today.

Defending champion Jimmy Connors, who won the last two singles titles here, is not defending his crown. Instead, Connors is playing in the Canadian Open at Toronto this week.

Seagren guaranteed spot in finals for Superstars

ROTONDA, Fla. (AP) — Pole vaulter Bob Seagren's domination of a 13-man Superstars qualifying field has made him $14,700 richer and guaranteed him a spot in February's $122,000 Superstars finals.

And Seagren, who won the initial Superstars event in 1973, is entered in both of today's final qualifying events with a chance to earn more money at $100 a point.

Three firsts and a second in five events Tuesday gave Seagren a two-day total of 47 points and $4,700 and clinched the $10,000 top prize in the qualifier. The three other qualifying positions remained unsettled, however.

Seagren faces hockey's Yvan Cournoyer and Dave Schultz, hurdler Rod Milburn, speed skater Ard Schenk, basketball's Jim McMillian and pole vaulter Steve Smith in weight lifting. He's up against Smith, basketball's Bill Bradley and John Havlicek, Schultz, hockey's Rod Gilbert and middle-distance runner Dave Wottle in swimming.

Schenk has 23 points, Smith 21, McMillian 20, Havlicek 18, Wottle 12, Cournoyer and basketball's Pete Maravich 10, Gilbert 8, Milburn 7, Bradley and Grand Prix driver James Hunt 6, and Schultz 4.

Seagren won Tuesday's 100-yard dash in 10.65 seconds, the half mile run in 2:11.56 and the obstacle course in 23:39. He was second to Schenk in the onemile bicycle race as Schenk finished in 2:47.56 to Seagren's 2:48.89.

Charge Decatur boss with theft of bonus

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — The owner of the Decatur Commodores in the Midwest Baseball League has been charged with theft by deception in the disappearance of $5,000 belonging to one of his players.

Rick Richardson, 25, surrendered Monday to Decatur police and was released on $1,000 bond. Police had sought him since Friday, when third baseman Michael K. Wilbins complained that a $5,000 check he had turned over to Richardson had disappeared.

Mrs. Sander takes honors

SEATTLE (AP) — For the second day in a row, medalist Deborah Massey of Bethlehem, Pa., started slowly and finished with a rush in the 74th U.S. Women's Amateur golf championship.

In the first day of match play, the 23-year-old Miss Massey was one up at the turn then birdied the 12th and 13th holes for a 5 and 3 victory over Martha Jane Southern of National City, Calif.

But the best 18-hole score Tuesday was turned in by Anne Quast Sander, a three-time tournament winner playing on her home Broadmoor Golf Club course. Three-up after nine holes, she said the 10th hole was "the turning point."

Mrs. Sander hooked her tee shot onto the 18th fairway but was able to play safely back sinking a 12-foot birdie putt and winding up at three-under-par to oust 15-year-old Carolyn Hill of Placentia, Calif., 5 and 4.

Defending champion Carol Semple of Sewickley, Pa. also advanced to the second round with a 6 and 4 victory over Laura Goodwin of Tulsa, Okla.

Three other former title-holders were eliminated.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp HOW TO PLAY A LEAPING FISH

WHEN YOU'VE HOOKED A FISH ON A FLY (OR FLY-TACKLE LURE), LOWER ROD TIP INSTANTLY WHEN HE LEAPS. THIS CREATES SLACK, ELIMINATING A TIGHT LEADER THAT MIGHT SNAP DURING OR AFTER JUMP IF FISH LANDED ON IT. IF WELL HOOKED, A FISH ON A SLACK LINE WON'T SHAKE LOOSE. FLYWEIGHT LURES.

KEEP A TAUT LINE WHEN USING PLUGS, SPOONS, ETC. OTHERWISE, A FISH MAY ENLARGE HOOK'S HOLE AND SHAKE OUT THE LURE.

VanDenBrandt places 7th in nationals

LINCOLN, Neb. — John Van Den Brandt, who will be a senior at Appleton East High School, placed seventh in the Junior National AAU mile walk here last week.

Van Den Brandt was clocked in seven minutes, 27 seconds — thirty seconds better than his time of 1973.

A field of 13 walkers participated in the one mile event.

Van Den Brandt said, he was satisfied with his effort considering his time and caliber of competition.

He may conclude his walking program in the National two-mile in Chicago next weekend.

Appleton Legion host for playoff

The Appleton American Legion baseball team will be host to Green Bay Southport for an 8 p.m. Thursday game at Goodland Field.

Appleton won the southern division championship of the Fox River Valley American Legion League by defeating Oshkosh earlier in the season.

Southport defeated Menominee, Mich., 9-0 Tuesday night to qualify for the championship game.

Appleton, which placed second in the Wisconsin State tournament, had Doug Meyer named all-tourney third baseman and Kevin Donahue selected for the outfield.

Montgomery traded by Broncos to Bears

DENVER (AP) — Defensive back Randy Montgomery was traded Tuesday by the Denver Broncos of the National Football League, to the Chicago Bears.

Denver will receive an undisclosed 1975 draft choice from the Bears in exchange for Montgomery, a Broncos spokesman said.

Montgomery, entering his fifth season in the NFL, originally was a seventh round draft choice of Denver. Last season, he alternated with Leroy Mitchell at the left cornerback spot.

Lady racer's no powder puff

MINDEN, La. (AP) — Dian West started racing her father's souped-up Chevrolet less than a month ago but she's already taken the checkered flag 14 times.

And many of the opposite sex don't like it.

"Heck, some of our top amateurs haven't shown up for weeks because they can't stand the thought she'll whip them," said Buck Kemp, co-owner of Bayou Raceway in Minden, La.

Dian has been driving the sky blue 1957 Chevy for about four years but only started mixing it up with the men three weeks ago when one of the drivers failed to report for a heat.

Saturday she beat 12 men in a 20-lap feature race and said she doubted she stole any hearts.

"They try to crowd me and make it rough, but I'm not afraid and so far they're the one's who have the wrecks, not me," she said.

Dian, 20, is a clerk at a Shreveport bank. She's 5-foot-1, weighs 130 pounds and has long auburn hair which she tucks up under a white crash helmet.

The Bayou track is barely 40 feet wide and, during an average race, seven to 15 cars tear down it at full throttle. It's not unusual for drivers to smack up against one another as they try to crowd through narrow openings.

"She's not afraid to bump cars which is what makes her so tough," said Kemp, who races himself. "She'll bump and hit like all the rest of them and the crowds love it."

It's bad enough for her opponents that Dian wins, but it's the way she does it that makes them clamp down hard on their lower lips. When she pulls into the pit for fuel she straightens her hair and applies fresh lipstick.

She races in the hobby car division for smaller engine sizes, but wouldn't mind jumping to something heavier and faster.

"If someone offered me a job driving I wouldn't turn it down," she said. "I think I'm fast enough to run with anybody."

Kemp agrees. "As soon as she learns a little more technique she might be out there by herself, he said."

Salvino defeats McCune

EDISON, N.J. (AP) — Carmen Salvino, a 40-year-old veteran from Chicago, wrapped up first place in the $50,000 New Jersey Open Bowling Tournament Tuesday night, defeating Bowler of the Year Don McCune of Munster, Ind., 208192 in the final match.

It was Salvino's 12th pro title and was worth $5,000. McCune, who advanced to the finals with three straight victories, picked up $2,900 for second place.

Salvino, who upped his earnings for the year to $25,000, and McCune both spared in the first two frames. Salvino took the lead for good with strikes in the third and fourth frames, but led by only nine pins after seven frames.

The margin grew to 27 two frames later when Salvino added three more strikes. McCune, who collected 23 strikes in his first three triumphs, managed only three in 10 frames against Salvino.

McCune made it into the finals with victories over Don Johnson of Akron, Ohio, 227-187, Joe Berardi of New York City, 253-184, and Marshall Holman of Medford, Ore., 255-177.

Heritage Hill park bids to be opened

Post-Crescent Madison bureau
MADISON — The state Department of Transportation and the Department of Natural Resources plan to open bids next week for construction of a small part of Heritage Hill State Park, despite the fact that the park has not yet been authorized by the state Building Commission.

Bids to construct a 74-foot concrete underpass to carry a park road under State 57, also called Riverside Drive, will be opened by the division of highways Aug. 20.

The park project, which would be developed with $1.7 million authorized by the state legislature, was included in the annual budget review bill signed by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey. The building commission still must vote final approval and a DNR spokesman said that the project may not be brought back to the commission until October because private funding is still being investigated in the Green Bay area.

Jerald Slack, chief engineer for the DNR, said the decision to put part of the Heritage Hill project to bid was made last spring in hopes that the building commission already would have acted. But he also stated that unexpected disapproval of the project by the commission would not leave the state with an unwanted underpass.

"First of all, the land still will belong to the state and there will have to be some way to connect the land on both sides of Riverside Drive, even if there is some other kind of park there," Slack said. "Secondly, we had the chance of having this underpass built with part of the Allouez-Ashwaubenon bridge project, and if we were to build it a year later as a separate project, it would cost about $60,000 more."

Slack also said that if the building commission voted against the project this fall, plans for the underpass still could be eliminated.

"It was just that a decision had to be made and we made it," Slack said. "It certainly isn't binding."

Also scheduled for the bid opening is a project that includes construction of the east approaches to the bridge from the Fox River to Webster Avenue.

Edmund Byrkit, assistant to state engineer Harold Fiedler, said the awarding of the bids for the Heritage Hill underpass would be withheld until the DNR could assure financing of the project.

Meanwhile, prospects for raising much money to make a dent in the cost of Heritage Hill seem bleak. Rep. Cletus Vanderperren, D-Green Bay, a member of the commission, said that he has been meeting with business officials in the Green Bay area but added that he didn't think a lot of money would be raised.

Police & fire

A one-car accident on State 96, about a mile from Outagamie County Trunk DD, at 6:10 p.m. Monday, injured two persons, one of whom required hospitalization.

John W. Wald, 26, Combined Locks, is listed in fair condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital. He suffered lacerations to the head and bumps and bruises. John Van Veghel, 31, Pershing Street, Appleton, also sustained minor bumps and bruises.

Wald's vehicle was westbound on State 96 when the left front wheel seemed to lock and he was unable to keep the car under control. The car skidded across the highway and struck a power pole.

James Beaudry, 21, was taken from the Outagamie County jail to St. Elizabeth Hospital about midnight Monday after he complained of difficulty breathing and chest pains. The fire department rescue squad and a private ambulance were summoned.

Police said a 34-year-old rural Appleton man fought his way from a speeding ticket into a disorderly conduct charge about 3:20 a.m. Tuesday.

Police charged that the man became abusive and refused to accept a speeding ticket or hand over his driver's license after he was stopped in the 1700 block of N. Richmond Street.

A struggle broke out at the police station after the man tried to leave, according to the complaint. He then was taken to jail.

Another season of high water on Great Lakes predicted by government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government forecasters are predicting an unusual fourth season of high water for the Great Lakes next year. Similar conditions over two years have occurred twice in this century, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said.

But the lakes are currently well into their third season of high water with more on the way. Scientists attributed the current high water to rain and snow at levels of 16½ inches above normal since 1965. The heavy precipitation has combined with slower than normal evaporation from the lakes.

Higgins proposes meeting on bridges

A public meeting to discuss major bridge construction in Outagamie County has been proposed by County Board Chairman Eugene Higgins.

In a letter to Appleton Mayor James Sutherland, Higgins noted that "the interest in bridge construction in Outagamie County is of great concern to many towns, villages and cities in the county."

Higgins explained that a few municipalities have asked for meetings to discuss aspects of proposed major bridge construction. Attention has centered on proposed Oneida Street and French Road spans.

"In order to expedite this discussion," Higgins related, "I am proposing a meeting of all concerned towns, villages and cities."

Higgins proposed that the meeting be at 7 p.m. Sept. 19 in the county board room at the courthouse.

He said he is hoping for acceptance

100 campers end week of fun at Keller's Lake

MARION — More than 100 campers and nearly the same number of staff members last week participated in the annual week of day camp at Keller's Lake for mentally handicapped children and adults.

The Waupaca County Association for Retarded Citizens sponsored the day camp, which was staffed by volunteers. Mrs. Clifford Rafoth, Clintonville, was the director.

Campers enjoyed fishing, boating, swimming, nature crafts and hiking. Pony rides were an added treat this year, arranged by the association and owners who were in Marion this past weekend for the homecoming celebration.

cism of the increase earlier in the day Monday, calling for restraint from all sectors of the economy.

Nelson said "sacrifice and restraint are demanded of everyone. In apparent reference to Ford's call for a balanced budget and other restrictions on spending, Nelson added that his remarks include "government, as the world's largest corporation."

Nelson singled out Ford's pledge of "no, illegal tapping, eavesdropping, bugging or break-ins by my Administration."

"I also applaud the President's rejection of the police state tactics of the past," said Nelson.

Commenting in general, Nelson added, "The heart of his speech was a reassuring guarantee that the people will have a strong voice in their government and how it operates. It was a good beginning for the Administration."

fied board purchases services from the health center," he said. "If the trustees are on the board they would be purchasing services from themselves."

Noting that a director and three coordinators have been hired, Schroeder said, "We can get along with nine." Supv. Francis Coonen said Outagamie County was only one of nine counties with unified boards of more than nine members. On the other hand, he said, there are 45 counties with nine or fewer members on their unified boards.

Supv. Diane Cusatis went through a detailed chart explanation of what the relationship between the unified board and trustees should be. She urged keeping the 15 members and said "I hope the executive will comply to fill the positions."

Schuh, questioned on whether the trustees could legally be part of the unified board, said the issue has never formally resolved legally. There is some question, he said, whether the statute under which the unified board was created allows for it, but, he added, there is the feeling that it is now permitted under the administrative home rule law.

The possibility of leasing an area near the corner of East Water and Main streets for additional public parking will be investigated.

The 60-foot tower for the fire department radio communications system has been received and installed.

The board of review will reconvene at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Aug. 22. Open hearings are scheduled Monday and Tuesday at city hall.

The VFW auxiliary will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the hall.

CLINTONVILLE — The VFW Post will meet at 8 p.m. today at the VFW Hall to discuss the work schedule for the group's stand at the Shawano County Fair.

The VFW auxiliary will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the hall.

of the proposal from officials of Appleton, the villages of Kimberly and Little Chute and the towns of Grand Chute and VandenBroek.

Invited guests, Higgins, said, would be district highway engineer Charles Ryan of Green Bay and Roy Willey, director of the East-Central Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Bridge may get U.S. aid

KAUKAUNA — Mayor Robert La Plante was informed Monday by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that the city could qualify for federal aid for replacement of the lift span portion of the Wisconsin Avenue bridge. However, such aid would have to come through the state Department of Transportation, which is responsible for distributing funds allocated by the federal government.

La Plante has been working for almost three years to receive outside financial aid for the bridge replacement. He has written all representatives on the state and national level and claims that his file on the bridge is the largest of any he has kept.

Proxmire noted in his letter that three years ago the Kaukauna bridge was listed under the Federal Aid Urban System and as such qualified for aid under the special bridge replacement program.

tution $1,850 the coordinator said. The developmentally disabled program is responsible for children up to six years and for persons 16 years and older. There are 947 of these persons in Waupaca County. At this time 14 adults are being served at the temporary quarters in Manawa and there is a long waiting list. These clients come from day care centers in New London and Clintonville.

New programs after Jan. 1 will include the sheltered workshops, which negotiate contracts with local industry and also manufacture some items of their own.

The major objection to the lease agreement came from those who did not understand why the county did not construct its own building.

Paul Neja, program director for Unified Health Services explained, "We do not wish to let a building dictate the programs. This often happens as programs expand."

Chairman Woodrow Smith said that if the county owned the building it could charge back to the state on a nominal amount for depreciation.

The state will pay 100 per cent of the cost of basic services in 1975 but will not fund 100 per cent of the programs. This means that the county will pay a share of the cost of programs, which is an undetermined amount at this point, Neja said.

Unified Health Services is required by law to charge fees from its clients, based on their ability to pay.

Voting on the lease: 24 supervisors voted yes and Supvs. Harold Dushek, Kenneth Egan, Fred Grunwald, Geary Wilson and Clifford Zietlow voted no.

The board unanimously approved appointment of Alan Stange, 205-N. Morton St., Waupaca, to replace Robert Whitman in District 20.

The board, by resolution, cited the City of Manawa, as an active and progressive force in the history and development of Waupaca County, congratulated its citizens on its first 100 years as an organized community and officially designated Saturday as "Earl Butz Day." This special recognition goes to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Butz in appreciation for his concern for the continued vitality of small towns and rural America. He is the first Secretary of Agriculture to visit Waupaca County.

Chairman Woodrow Smith asked the supervisors to reconfirm the appointment of Vernon Johnson as county safety coordinator.

Supv. Anthony Resch, Weyauwega, was appointed to the county law enforcement committee, replacing Robert Whitman, and Supv. Alan Stange was appointed to the claims committee to replace Resch.

Several months ago the board approved the formation of a study committee to explore the feasibility of towns hiring their own law enforcement officers to handle rural problems. Supv. Geary Wilson, who presented the idea, was named chairman. Serving with him will be Supv. Walter Cura, Towns of Dayton and Farmington; and Supv. Loyal Eulrich, Town of Matteson and Village of Embarrass, together with town chairmen Ivan Gruetzmacher, Caledonia, and Irvin Schmalenberg, Bear Creek.

By resolution the board of supervisors set the county's official work week at 40 hours for courthouse and courthouse annex employees, except law enforcement personnel who come within the bargaining powers of the Law Enforcement Association.

Bids, opened on a new truck for the city street department, ranged from $7,620 to $8,215. The three bids were sent to the city affairs committee for further study. Public Works Director Larry Brown submitted specifications on a snowplow and dump box for the new truck, and these items will be bid after the truck contract is awarded.

Approval was given to install sanitary sewer and water main to the seven-lot Behnke subdivision at the end of Columbus Street and sewer at greater depth from Maple to Petty streets. The work will be added to a city contract with the Joski Construction Co. Joski again was admonished for proceeding with work before receiving formal approval, and will be instructed not to begin until DNR approval is received.

No bids were received for equipment rental for the completion of Glenview Avenue. The city attorney advised that the council can either proceed to contract for the work or readvertise. Brown was instructed to get two proposals before the next meeting.

In other action: — The Sandman Motel was annexed to the city under town island legislation, receiving agricultural zoning until recommended otherwise by the plan commission.

— A small land parcel owned by R.D. Peters on Wolfshmidt Street received a first ordinance reading for annexation upon request of the owner after the assessor discovered the area had been overlooked.

— The possibility of leasing an area near the corner of East Water and Main streets for additional public parking will be investigated.

— The 60-foot tower for the fire department radio communications system has been received and installed.

— The board of review will reconvene at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Aug. 22. Open hearings are scheduled Monday and Tuesday at city hall.

Ford has worked out his economic program

(Third of a series)

Has our new President a real, no-faking program to help battle inflation—which he himself calls "a cancer that could cause a lingering death for the industrialized world?" Yes.

Does Republican President Ford's program differ significantly from that of Republican President Nixon? Yes.

A first fundamental point is that Ford does have a program and a detailed one. During the drama-packed weeks before Nixon stepped down, the Vice President was outlining that blueprint but few were listening. I'll submit its key aspects today.

A second fundamental is that Ford's approach differs in several unique ways from Nixon's. Among the most significant of those differences is Ford's emphasis on cooperation with Congress, on reaching solutions and his pleas—stated in recent weeks with increasing urgency—for "reconciliation" and for "reasonable compromise." Perhaps Nixon might have stressed these aspects too, but the Watergate scandals so divided the U.S. that Nixon couldn't even try to attract the active support of all segments in Congress, much less hope to win it. Ford has an extraordinary chance to achieve this during his "honeymoon."

A third fundamental is that Ford is now surrounded by a team of tough, dedicated anti-inflation advisers who have convinced him there "is no easy way, only a hard way" to curb the price spiral. He is not an economist by any stretch of the imagination. But when he says "the real weapons against inflation are the old-time virtues—a sound budget and a sound monetary policy," he sounds like he understands and means it.

Now to the details which touch each one of us:

The new cornerstone that Ford will place in the anti-inflation fight (if he can) will be a federal budget not only in balance next year but "maybe in surplus." Nothing could be more important than to achieve that budget surplus, he says. He promises, therefore, to veto budget-busting legislation, to ask Congress to have the "political guts" to defer programs that are desirable but not really essential. Then he holds out to his friends in Congress the carrot: as one of you for a quarter-century, my "deepest wish is that a way can be found for us to work together."

* Already in place is the cornerstone of a tough monetary policy which has made credit so scarce and pushed borrowing costs to horrendous heights. This, Ford says, he will not oppose because the inflation-creating supply of money and credit must be restrained, and when the budget is reduced, this will mean "reduced government borrowing, reduced interest rates" and a much less painful overall credit policy.

Then, Ford pledges these actions:

* An all-out drive to expand the productivity of industry, particularly production in industries where shortages exist—such as energy and a variety of basic materials;

* A reexamination of regulations in the environmental area to make sure there is a proper balance between the needs of the economy and our yearning for social well-being;

* Special programs to aid industries badly hurt by a stringent monetary policy, such as public utilities, housing, financial institutions;

* Particular emphasis on expanding the production of our farms and, says Ford, as a representative of a rural-oriented part of Michigan, he truly recognized the importance of this;

* A rejection of price-wage controls as making "only a marginal contribution," but at the same time a "need for close monitoring of price and wage developments (which means a new wage-price setup in Washington), for not to do so would be "unforgivable negligence";

* A provocative fight on monopoly power in labor or in industry, for "monopoly inevitably reduces supply and creates artificial high prices" (quite a pledge indeed!);

* Tax incentives in various areas and forms, if found desirable, to spur investment in new plants and equipment that will help increase our nation's productive capacity.

There is more to Ford's program but the point of overwhelming significance at this point is that he even has a program.

"The eagle on the dollar is screaming; we must unify in responding to that cry" . . . "The time has come for action, not doom-saying and hand-wringing" . . .

Colorful phrases with a potentially profound impact. For all our sakes—and the world's—pray that he means them.

Zuidmulder discloses his net worth

GREEN BAY — Democratic congressional candidate Donald R. Zuidmulder today voluntarily announced his net worth is $27,501, and said he paid income taxes totalling $1,563 for last year.

The Brown County district attorney, a candidate for the 8th District congressional nomination, listed assets of $55,662 and liabilities of $28,161.

He reported having had a gross income in 1973 of $17,823, on which he said he paid federal income taxes of $1,026 and Wisconsin income taxes of $537.

Zuidmulder listed among his assets his personal savings, a car, home, life insurance and contributions to the state retirement fund as a public employee. He listed liabilities including a personal loan, car loan and home mortgage, all with a Green Bay bank. His home represents the chief financial item in his statement, having cost $34,000 in 1971 and representing $40,000 estimated value at present. His mortgage is reported at $25,663.

In releasing the financial statement, Zuidmulder pointed out it is not required by law. But he added, "I think it is very appropriate that the voters know all the facts about candidates for public office."

"In these times when there have been financial improprieties by elected officials, a statement of financial worth becomes imperative."

Zuidmulder's opponent in the September Democratic primary, the Rev. Robert Cornell of De Pere, has not made a public declaration of financial worth. A spokesman for the St. Norbert College priest and history professor said he did not know whether Cornell intends to make such a statement, although he added that he has filed a report with the state ethics board.

Rep. Harold Froehlich of Appleton, the Republican whose congressional seat the two Democrats hope to run for, listed his net worth at the end of 1973 at $103,458.

BY CAPPY DICK
A table game called "Rebound," fascinating for boys, girls and adults, will be the national grand prize in today's puzzle contest.
Five of these exciting games, manufactured by Ideal Corporation, will be awarded one to each boy or

Which are alike
The contest problem is to find two clocks in the picture above that show the same time. When you have found them, mark them in some way so the judges will know which clocks they are. Clip the picture out and paste it on a piece of paper. Print your name, age, address and Zip Code number beneath it. Decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts.
Address your entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek "Rebound" Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.
Names of the prize winners will be published here and their awards will be mailed to the homes. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson Bland diet loses favor for diverticulitis patients

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After having had diverticulitis a few years ago, but having been in perfect health since, is it necessary to stay on the following diet?

No nuts, grapes, raisins unless seedless; no uncooked fruit or vegetables, no corn because of the skin on the kernels, or skin of prunes unless mashed, no tomatoes or cucumbers unless seeds are taken out first

has tried glasses and exercises but they do not help — E.T.S

This is the kind of question I can't undertake to answer, first because I would want to know a good deal more about her condition before forming an opinion, and second (and more important) I think this should be answered by an ophthalmologist. Eye specialist, that is

Dear Dr. Thosteson Is it true that the greatest danger of pregnancy is right before one's period and right after it? Is it true that the older a woman is, the less chance she will have a child? — A.D

First question. No, those are the times of least risk Second question Fertility declines with age, but not usually noticeably until the late 40s as a rule.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To learn more about it, write for Thosteson's booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," in care of The Post-Crescent Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents Allow four to six weeks for delivery

Since you are in good health and have no symptoms related to the diverticulitis, I see no reason for you to avoid foods that contain bulk which applies to most of your question

In fact, in recent years a totally bland diet has been losing favor for diverticulosis and diverticulitis, and patients do better with more bulk in their diet instead of little bulk. Cereals should not bother you, and indeed some specialists in this problem have even had patients eat a certain amount of bran

Tomato and cucumber seeds are soft and I doubt if these will cause you any trouble; I would, however, avoid seeds such as those in blackberries, raisins or grapes. You might do well to be cautious about corn

But keep this in mind The final decision has to be made on the basis of results. If some food item begins giving you distress, avoid it

Dear Dr Thosteson What are the causes or symptoms of glaucoma? Is it curable? Is it inherited? What is the treatment? If you have a booklet on it, I will send for it — E.G

The cause of glaucoma is not usually apparent — and unfortunately the symptoms in most cases are not recognized by the patient until the condition is advanced

It amounts to an increase in pressure inside the eyeball, and given time, this pressure will destroy eyesight, so it is a dangerous condition

It can be detected, however, quite readily by a simple medical test which measures pressure in the eye. If pressure is excessive, then the use of drops, and in some cases eye surgery, can reduce the pressure and prevent the damage.

Yes, I have a booklet which tells you what to do in case of either cataracts or glaucoma and I recommend that you read it. Send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed return envelope to me in care of The Post-Crescent for it

Dear Dr Thosteson: Do you think a lazy eye that wanders only when my granddaughter (10 years old) is tired or nervous should be operated on? She

American Can to build onto Neenah facility

NEENAH — American Can Co. has announced plans for a 24,000 square foot expansion of its graphic arts facility at 155 Western Ave. The building, which has been in operation since 1953, services converting plants in the Midwest, five Dixie Cup plants and three Northern Products plants

Current employment is about 200. The facility handles all three major types of printing preparation — lithography, rotogravure and flexography

Approximately 10,000 offset plates and 4,500 rotogravure cylinders are prepared each year for distribution to various plants.

The planned addition will be used primarily for the storage of preparation materials which are used to produce existing and future designs

3 area projects included in bids

MADISON — The state Division of Highways will open bids Aug. 20 on 25 highway improvement projects in 16 counties, including three in the Fox Valley area.

The list includes grading, base and concrete pavement on Calumet Street between Telulah Avenue and Matthias Street in Appleton

In Waupaca County, bids will be taken on a program to increase capacity and safety of traffic in New London by installing pretimed signals at the intersection of Pearl Street and N. Water Street and at Wolf River and Pearl streets

A three-span, 36-foot concrete girder structure is planned in Winnebago County to carry County Trunk PP over the Soo Line railroad between Little Lake, Butte des Morts and U.S. Highway 41

Woman to replace Morse as candidate

BAKER, Ore. (AP) — State Sen. Betty Roberts has been chosen to replace the late Sen. Wayne Morse as the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat held by Republican Bob Packwood

Packwood, who is seeking reelection, unseated Morse six years ago. Morse, an early foe of American involvement in Vietnam, died last month in the midst of an attempt at a political comeback

Sen. Roberts, a 51-year-old lawyer, won the nomination on the fourth ballot Sunday at the Oregon Democratic Convention. She ran a close second for the party's gubernatorial nomination in the May primary election

Three NLRB hearings, two elections slated

Three hearings and two elections for union representation, have been announced by the National Labor Relations Board, 30th Region

Local 563 of the Teamsters will try to gain representation of two truckdrivers from Tri-County Ready Mix, Chilton, at a hearing set for 10 a.m. Friday at the Post Office Building, 129 N. Superior St., Appleton.

United Paper Workers, AFL-CIO, is petitioning to represent 30 production and maintenance employees from the XYZ Corporation, Kaukauna. The hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. Aug. 20, City Hall, Kaukauna Retail Store Employees, Local 214, hopes to represent 55 employees of the Dairy State Market, Neenah. That hearing is slated for 10 a.m. Aug. 27, Neenah City Hall.

Three unions, two of which are entering into a joint petition, are vying to represent 280 production and maintenance employees of the Hillshire Farm Co., a division of Consolidated Farm Corp. Amalgamated Meatcutters, Local 248, and the Teamsters, Local 563, the joint petitioners, and the Independent Employees Union of Quality Packing, will be on the ballot in an election slated for Aug. 23 at the firm's New London plant.

Approximately nine employees from Arctic Distributors, Inc., Neenah, will vote on whether they want to be represented by the Teamsters Local 563. That election, which was directed by the NLRB's regional director, will be from 2 to 3 p.m. Aug. 23 at the plant.

Ford looks at inflation, Cyprus

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford conferred with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on the Cyprus crisis today, then turned to economic problems and urged "an atmosphere of self-sacrifice" to help deal with inflation.

Ford added a meeting with Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., to his crowded schedule in an apparent move to gain support for the administration effort to reactivate the Cost of Living Council to monitor wage and price increases.

"Why can't everybody make a little sacrifice?" to cope with inflation, Ford said as he sat down with the senator.

The President and Kissinger met earlier in the Oval Office in the wake of renewed fighting on Cyprus.

As he as leaving his Alexandria, Va. home this morning for the White House, Ford told reporters he also had conferred Tuesday night by telephone with Kissinger on the latest developments in Cyprus. The President did not elaborate.

On domestic matters, a White House spokesman conceded for the first time that Ford may be growing attached to his new job and Ford served notice that he intends to be his own man in economics as well as politics.

White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst relayed the word on Tuesday that there would be a "Ford program" to fight inflation, with the firm imprimatur of the new President.

One of Ford's economic proposals was to be revealed today when Budget Director Roy L. Ash appears before the House Banking and Currency Committee to outline recommendations for an anti-inflation agency.

TerHorst acknowledged that the economic policies that former President Richard M. Nixon had announced only a month ago in a Los Angeles speech face possible revision or replacement.

Asked if these policies were under review and liable to change, terHorst said, "That would be a fair statement."

The question came after terHorst reported that Ford had told a private meeting of lower-level administration officials that inflation was the nation's No. 1 problem.

TerHorst said Ford told these aides that he did not expect to come up with any instant panaceas, but "at least there would be a Ford program."

Reminded that Ford had the same economic advisers who formulated Nixon policies, terHorst said Ford "has told them that the country has a new President," who expects to have his own inputs and perhaps come up with some new ideas.

"He thinks the country expects it of him" terHorst said. "He thinks he has reason to believe that Congress would cooperate if he can offer programs that make sense on Capitol Hill."

TerHorst also let slip another change in Ford ideas when he conceded that Ford's previous "no" to a possible 1976 presidential candiacy is now a "maybe."

The press secretary was careful to explain at a news briefing that too much should not be made of Ford's remarks in his Monday night speech to Congress about making "at least" three State of the Union addresses during his presidency.

Town, military strip near Nicosia taken by Turks

By The Associated Press

The Turkish command reported its tank-led troops captured a town eight miles from the Cypriot capital of Nicosia today and overran its military airstrip.

Turkish forces also drove south and east of Nicosia, taking over the Greek Cypriot radio station in the southern part of the capital.

A Turkish announcer indicated the Nicosia airport also had fallen. But later reports showed the airfield taken was the one at Tymbou, eight miles southeast of Nicosia.

The radio gave the impression that the Turks were attempting to encircle Nicosia.

The broadcast came as heavy fighting broke out on the island following the breakdown of peace efforts, and Greece announced withdrawal of its military forces from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The station suddenly stopped broadcasting Greek Cypriot communiques and martial music, and appealed in Greek for Greek Cypriots to surrender.

"Greece cannot do anything for you," the radio said. "Give yourselves up to the Turkish forces."

It announced that Turkish forces were advancing to the southeast and southwest of the city, and said "The Tymbou and the airport areas previously held by the Greek forces have been captured."

"All operation have been successfully carried out according to plan," the radio said.

Turkish planes, armor and infantry blasted their way through Greek Cypriot lines on the island, rocking Cyprus with heavy explosions and sending up huge columns of smoke from devastated buildings.

At least 41 persons were reported wounded in the first few hours of fighting, including 28 patients in a mental hospital, 12 members of the U.N. peacekeeping force and one newsman.

The Greek radio claimed four Turkish planes were downed.

Turkey said it wanted to gain control of only a "fair share" of territory for the Turkish Cypriots and not the whole island. This was an apparent reference to the northern part of Cyprus.

Greece announced its withdrawal from military participation in NATO as a result of the onslaught, and discussed the possibility of war with Turkey.

Witnesses in northern Greece reported new tanks on flat cars and trains moved through the night and early today in the direction of the Turkish border.

Representatives of the 15 NATO governments met urgently in Brussels and most of them told Greece they hoped its withdrawal from the military organization would be only temporary, a spokesman said.

In Washington, President Ford discussed the Cyprus situation with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Details were not available, but Ford said he also discussed the situation with Kissinger Tuesday night by phone.

In London, Archbishop Makarios, deposed president of Cyprus, called on the world's major powers to rescue the eastern Mediterranean island from what he called "barbarous Turkish aggression."

"What the Turks failed to achieve at the Geneva conference by blackmail and gunboat diplomacy, they are now attempting to get by brutal force," the archbishop said.

He spoke less than 24 hours after Turkey walked out of the Geneva peace talks, and the U.N. Security Council adopted a British resolution calling for a new Cyprus cease-fire and resumption of the conference.

Air space over Turkey, Greece and Cyprus was closed with the new outbreak of fighting on the island, and telephone and telex lines to Cyprus were cut off.

On Cyprus, the Greek Cypriots began falling back east and west of Nicosia, taking antiaircraft batteries with them as the Turkish tanks and artillery broke through their lines behind heavy air strikes and rolling artillery and mortar barrages, newsmen said.

Other reports said the Turks advanced 400 yards beyond the so-called Green Line dividing the Turkish and Greek quarters of Nicosia and enveloped the British high commissioner's office.

Ford out of decision on Nixon trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signaled his intention to stay out of any decision to prosecute Richard M. Nixon for Watergate crimes.

The President indicated that he would leave it up to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski to decide whether to seek an indictment against the former president, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Tuesday after a private meeting with Ford.

"He made no statement on it, but I got the feeling that it will just run its course, that he has no intention of intervening one way or the other," Saxbe told reporters.

The attorney general said he raised the issue with Ford only briefly during a session scheduled to inform the new President about pending Justice Department matters.

"I told him that this was in Mr. Jaworski's area, that it would just have to run its course," the attorney general said as he reaffirmed his own intention to leave Jaworski free to decide the issue.

Legal experts familiar with the Watergate investigation say Nixon could face a gamut of criminal charges ranging from obstruction of justice to subornation of perjury for his role in the scandals.

The grand jury that indicted Nixon's one-time advisers on charges of obstruction of justice in the Watergate cover-up named Nixon as an unindicted coconspirator after being told of the doubtful constitutionality of an indictment against a sitting president.

Nixon's resignation stripped him of that shield.

Jaworski has said nothing about the possibility of charges against Nixon. On the eve of Nixon's resignation, the prosecutor said there was no deal promising Nixon immunity if he quit the presidency.

Ford has the constitutional authority to pardon Nixon for any Watergate crimes even before formal charges and a trial. Saxbe said he and Ford did not discuss that possibility.

Asked whether Ford is considering pardoning Nixon, White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst said, "I'm not aware that it has come up."

He told reporters, "The President is not keeping that question on the top of his priorities for the nation. He feels it's very important that the country move ahead on positive programs."

Saxbe said Jaworski's charter of office clearly assigns the prosecutor the responsibility for deciding whether to prosecute Nixon.

Whether or not he is charged with crimes, Nixon faces the prospect of being summoned as a witness in Watergate-related civil and criminal trials. He has been named as a defendant in one lawsuit and could face other civil suits.

All of those proceedings could cost Nixon hundreds of thousands of dollars in legal fees, but he can't draw from some $2 million in leftover campaign funds to pay them.

The money can't be used to pay legal fees of anyone who was not a campaign official, said two of the three trustees administering the leftover funds

White House thrills Mrs. Ford

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford has delayed her packing for the move to the White House because of preparations she must make for a state dinner Friday night for Jordanian King Hussein, a White House spokesman said today.

But the Fords of Crown View Drive still hope to move in Monday at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Mrs. Ford had planned to start packing today.

The dinner for Hussein will be the first state dinner for the Fords. Some 110 guests are expected for dinner and 150 more have been invited for the dancing afterward.

Mrs. Ford, after inspecting the 132-room executive mansion Tuesday, said: "It's very beautiful and in excellent condition. I'm thrilled to death."

Although Mrs. Ford said she is looking forward to moving across the Potomac River, she made it clear right off that "I really don't consider it my house — I consider it the house of the people."

Her husband, President Ford, plans to be out of town moving day, addressing the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago.

Reporters noted that Ford is a pre-dawn riser and often fixes his own breakfast. That might not change, Mrs. Ford hinted: "All he needs is a toaster."

Broached about her views that President Ford was thinking about appointing a woman for vice president, Mrs. Ford replied that it was a fine idea.

"It would be very nice. I think it's time that women step up and take their place," she said. Nevertheless, she said her husband has not discussed with her who will be his choice for No. 2.

The First Lady, appearing in a bright green dress for her first full-fledged news conference at the Pennsylvania Avenue address, hedged on whether she called herself a women's liberation advocate.

"... Certainly on equal rights and equal pay," she said finally.

Replying to another question at the outdoor interview, Mrs. Ford says she favors abolishing the church ban that prohibits women from becoming priests in the Episcopal church. The Fords are parishoners of the Episcopal Immanuel Church on the Hill in Alexandria. The parish has a woman deacon, the Rev. Patricia Park, who has been fighting against the ban on woman priests.

Youngsters dig for life of redwood

MILL VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — A band of pint-sized foresters is struggling to save the life of Little Brother, a mammoth, 200-year-old redwood tree in Northern California's Muir Woods.

Last winter, flood waters from a nearby creek undermined the shallow roots of the 100-foot tree and it appeared in danger of toppling.

The 125 children, ranging in age from 5 to 15, discovered the threat to the big redwood, which measures 20 feet in circumference, while on an outing from Mill Valley's Hillwood Academic Day School early last month.

Since then they have been working in shifts of about 15 for two and three days a week to save the forest giant.

Using adult tools shortened to their length, the little woodsmen first restored the soil washed away last winter.

Now they are building four stone dams on the creek which will divert the stream flow away from the tree. They also hope the dams will allow soil carried by the creek to build up and form a natural barrier against future erosion of the root area.

"I've never seen the children so happy and involved," said Mary Libra, director of the school. "They call the tree Little Brother. This is a project to save a friend."

"When you ask them why they're helping Little Brother they say because he's a living thing and wants to live like we want to. They say they want to bring their grandchildren here some day to show how they helped save him."

The area where Little Brother is growing has been added to Muir Woods National Monument by Congress, but it will not officially come under government ownership until late fall, preventing the Department of the Interior from stepping in to help save the tree until that time.

Libra said the school asked for and received a $650 grant from the Bank of America to purchase the stones used for the dams.

Muir Woods is a nationally recognized stand of redwood trees north of the Golden Gate bridge.

Milk co-op settles in trust case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's biggest dairy-farmer cooperative has agreed tentatively to settle a controversial antitrust suit with the government.

The co-op, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., agreed not to use coercion or threats against farmers who are not members: to get advance permission from the Justice Department before buying any new dairy plants during the next 10 years, and to refrain from a long list of practices which the anti-trust division had attacked as illegal.

The proposed consent decree was entered with U.S. Dist. Judge John W. Omer in Kansas City, Mo. A copy was made available Tuesday in Washington. Interested parties have 60 days to comment.

The co-op is the same one that pleaded guilty to making illegal corporate donations to the campaigns of ex-President Nixon and to Democrats including Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas.

The suit itself has roots intertwined with the politics of the milkstand after 1967. Then Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell refused in 1971 to allow the antitrust division to press a criminal antitrust investigation and directed that the civil suit be filed instead. Later, according to Watergate testimony, the co-op's general manager offered a Nixon fund-raiser $50,000 and asked that the suit be reduced to a "slap on the wrist."

Top allowed rate for federally insured home loans up to record 9.5 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of buying a home, particularly the crucial cost of borrowing money, is pushing upward relentlessly.

Rising interest rates for home buyers were reflected Tuesday in the government's decision to raise the maximum allowable rate on federally insured home loans to a record 9.5 per cent.

The rate had been 9 per cent for just over two months. The increase was twice the government's usual quarter of a percentage point adjustment.

Meanwhile, the Senate Tuesday approved a compromise $11.3 billion housing and community development bill that, among other things, authorized $8.6 billion in block grants for urban renewal, model cities, open spaces and other community development programs over the next three years.

The bill also increases from $45,000 to $55,000 the maximum amount of mortgage loans that federally chartered savings and loan associations can approve. It also increases the ceilings for FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed loans on single-family homes from $33,000 to $45,000.

The government's decision on the higher interest rate followed two other government reports detailing record interest rates.

The first report showed that the effective rate on conventional loans — those not insured by the government — increased to 8.97 per cent for new homes in July and 9 per cent for previously occupied homes.

The higher interest rates, higher prices and more restrictive terms mean the average cost of buying a new home has increased from a purchase price of $36,700 with $8,400 down and payments of $200 a month in March 1973, when the current surge started, to an average price of $40,700 with $10,500 down and $241 a month in July.

The second report indicated interest rates would continue to rise for home buyers, probably to 10 per cent or so over the next four months.

The shape of things to come was in the results of the auction of home loan commitments reported by the government's Federal National Mortgage Association.

The FNMA, known as Fannie Mae, commits itself periodically to buying a certain number of mortgages over the next four months, selecting from among the lenders who offer the best return.

Fannie Mae said the latest auction produced an average yield of just over 10 per cent for loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration and Veteran's Administration. The average rates for conventional loans was about the same.

Those rates might not hold up in the market place, but they usually do.

And at 10 per cent, that means FHA-VA home buyers and sellers would have to pay about 7.5 "points" to make up the difference between the 9 per cent in their loan agreement and the 10 per cent return the lender probably would be demanding.

In cold cash, the buyer would have had to pay his maximum permissible one point, or $300 on a $30,000 loan, and the seller would have to forfeit 6.5 points, or $1,950 of the sale price.

The 9.5 per cent rate would still leave the buyer open for the same $300 surcharge and extract about $940 from the seller.

The change in interest rates would boost the buyer's monthly payments from about $238 at the 9 per cent rate on a $30,000 loan paid over 30 years to about $248 at 9.5 per cent.

Uganda president's ex-wife found in car, dismembered

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — The dismembered body of one of President Idi Amin's former wives has been found in the trunk of a car that belonged to a doctor who died after poisoning himself, his wife and their seven children, Radio Uganda reported today.

The radio, quoting a Health Ministry spokesman and police, said the body of Amin's exwife, Kay Adroa, was found Tuesday. An autopsy showed death was caused by bleeding from an incomplete abortion, the Health Ministry spokesman said.

Adroa, who was said to have been three or four months pregnant, was the sister of former Foreign Affairs Minister Lt. Col. Ondoga, whose body was found floating in the river Nile several months ago.

Police said they believe the doctor, identified as Peter Mbalu Mukasa, committed suicide Monday after performing the illegal abortion on Adroa.

Police said a servant told them Mukasa forced his wife and their seven children to swallow poison tablets Sunday morning. Police found the family on Monday. The children and wife were unconscious but are now recovering in Mulago hospital, police said.

Mukasa was dead on arrival at the hospital.

President Amin and four of his children went to Mulago hospital Tuesday night to see the body of Adroa, one of Amin's three ex-wives, the radio said.

A hospital statement issued after the visit said the dismembered body of Adroa, was found packed into a sack and cardboard boxes.

Adroa was divorced by Amin last year.

She was arrested last May in Kampala on charges of illegal possession of ammunition but according to press reports at the time she was released after apologizing to Amin.

Nixon's wax likeness shelved by Tussaud's

LONDON (AP) — The wax likeness of Richard M. Nixon has been put on the shelf at Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum.

"After hearing the news of his resignation, we decided it would be better that he be stored," a museum spokesman said Sunday. "He was no longer in a relevant post."

Honeyed and feathered

The Rev. Brent Hiller, Peoria, Ill., promised to let students honey and feather him if attendance at vacation Bible school reached 100 or more. When 118 students showed up, he was doused with honey, left, and covered with feathers. Last summer he was pelted with chocolate pies when attendance broke 100. He isn't saying what he plans for next year. (AP wirephoto)

Temporary beef price drop is possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government farm experts say sharply lower corn yields will bring consumers a temporary easing of beef prices toward the end of this year.

But the experts also warn that the reduced corn crop, down 12 per cent from last year, will eventually translate into higher retail meat prices in 1975.

The drought in much of the Midwest, the prime reason for less feed next season, supposedly will force more cattle on to the market this fall because of rising production costs and dried up pastures.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicted on Tuesday that the reduced corn crop will mean "some curtailment" of cattle feeding and the sale of more cattle for slaughter later this fall.

Butz told newsmen, however, that recent rains in the Midwest will boost USDA corn estimates next month from the four-year low of 4.96 billion bushels estimated as of Aug. 1.

If the rains continue, they also could mean an improvement in parched grass conditions in the Great Plains and result in many cattle, which might otherwise go to market, being held in pastures later this year.

George Hoffman, a livestock economist in the department's Economic Research Service, told a reporter on Tuesday that cattle prices now are the highest since last winter.

Hoffman said that cattle prices lately have been around $47 per 100 pounds, roughly 30 per cent above the low levels last June of $35 or less.

Hoffman said the current cattle price

Agency would promote recreation

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A legislative committee containing spokesmen for tourism asked Tuesday for legislation that would create an independent agency for promoting commercialized recreation.

However, the state secretary of business development, William C. Kidd, said his department intends to include the state's tourism bureau in its 1975-77 budget plans, reflecting an alternative suggested by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

The governor and several legislators have recommended the bureau be transferred to the Business Development Department from the Natural Resources Department, hopefully cancelling bureaucratic policy conflicts with the DNR's duty to protect wilderness.

Burton Loken, the bureau director, said his agency ought to remain with the DNR where close contact to DNR wilderness-use policies can be assured.

The tourism industry wants the state to consider giving the bureau complete independence from either the DNR or Kidd's department.

It also wants legislators to agree to a bigger advertising subsidy.

The industry's approach is reflected in a plan approved unanimously Tuesday by the Legislative Council's Special Committee on Recreation Industry, comprising legislators and tourism spokesmen.

It was described as simply a starting point for the committee's staff of researchers and planners.

Committee chairman James Rutkowski, D-Hales Corners, said the plan does not necessarily exclude the alternatives cited by Kidd and Loken.

Kidd said his 1975-77 budget proposal would assure the bureau of satisfactory autonomy within his department.

"We think tourism is a business," he said, "and just like all business, it needs to be developed, managed and promoted."

The committee also discussed published reports that some resorts had not been included in advertising programs whose costs are shared between the DNR and the participants.

Resort operators had been quoted as saying they were unaware they could have participated.

Loken insisted each of the resort operators quoted in the articles had been contacted about the program through literature available to them.

President Ford's message

It was the style and spirit as much as the substance that was significant in President Ford's address to Congress Monday night.

His simplicity, humility and humor could not escape notice. And his obvious feeling of kinship with members of both houses and both parties of Congress was noteworthy on its face, but was particularly striking in contrast with even the Nixon of pre-Watergate times.

During the early moments of the speech in particular, it almost appeared that Mr. Ford had forgotten that he wore the heavy mantle of the Presidency, and was just getting together once more with the boys in his old club. It must have come as a source of relief to Constitutional scholars concerned about the separation of powers principle when he reminded everyone, "I now belong to the Executive Branch."

Yet, it is plain that the old ties are still strong, and that at least at the outset, this will be a President who respects, understands and hopefully works well with Congress.

It was not only in his pledge that there won't be any tapping, eavesdropping, bugging or burglarizing in his administration that Mr. Ford referred to his immediate predecessor. There were numerous passages in the speech that conveyed a sense of cleansing and purging, forms of implicit criticism and rejection of what has come before.

The promises of openness and cooperation with Congress and candor with the public were positive ways of saying that the practices of the former closed, distant and aloof administration are not to continue. His balanced budget pledge would reverse the practice, if not the theory, of his predecessor. His call for "reasonable compromise" to avoid use of the veto suggests at least a hope of being more restrained than was Mr. Nixon in using what the new President called "the last recourse."

But there also were important reaffirmations of Nixon policies. The most important, and clearly the one the President wished to stress most heavily, is his pledge for continuity in foreign affairs, and the companion warning that "there are no opportunities to exploit" if any of our international neighbors felt so inclined.

There was also Nixon doctrine in his opposition to "unwarranted cuts" — whatever that yet-to-be-defined phrase turns out to mean — in defense spending; in his opposition to "excessive funding" of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act that he promised to sign into law; in his promise to push Project Independence and national autonomy in energy resources and production.

But when the content of his statements is analyzed, the best part is the tone of honesty, openness, accessibility and lack of self-awe.

We have seen Presidents and other politicians going to church with their families for years and invoking the name of the Almighty in their self-interest.

But there is something sincere and believable in Gerald Ford declaring, "We all need God's help." It had the sound of a man who has had some deep conversations with his Maker in the past two weeks, and found strength and guidance there.

Stalemate over the seas

By August 29, the four thousand people representing 148 countries now meeting daily almost around the clock in Caracas, Venezuela, are supposed to draft and agree to proposals for laws of the sea. After six weeks of meetings, probably the major item most agree upon is stalemate.

This is the third United Nations conference on law of the sea since 1958 but only preliminaries were really accomplished at the others. This time advocates have hoped that the draft constitution could be taken to Vienna next spring and a full blown treaty for signatures reached. Maybe it still will come about.

The major problem is that laws governing the use of the sea have been reached by bits and pieces over the centuries. They have depended upon force most of all. The most daring sailors ruled whatever part of the oceans they could reach and vanquish others near. Pirates thrived where forces of national law were weak. The oceans are vast and nearly impossible to monitor even in this age of gadgets. And their riches grow more alluring every hour.

Another problem, born of the first, is that each nation still considers its own advantages and disadvantages when reviewing proposed regulations. This influences regular delegates to all United Nations meetings and other international bodies but it seems to be more important as far as the sea is concerned. And this may be both because much can go undetected beneath the surface of the water and much is probably yet to be found therein.

The draft treaty is supposed to cover regulations on navigation, fishing and mining. It is given the responsibility of finding international means of exploiting marine resources and probing for new ones. It should protect the rights and security of maritime nations and provide for sharing the seas' resources with the landlocked.

The voting procedure calls for each article to be approved by two-thirds of those present and voting as long as they also constitute a majority. But the problems are really more involved than that. "If a delegation feels its national interests are being outvoted, it might simply pick up and leave. This must be done by consensus," a European delegate explained.

Nevertheless the conference goes on. The stakes are high for the entire world.

A bit of humor

The House Judiciary Committee impeachment hearings properly were a grim business. But Rep. William Hungate of Missouri managed a few tension-breaking remarks, though he has a long way to go to equal Sen. Sam Ervin of Senate Watergate committee fame.

Last year, Hungate illustrated his sense of humor by writing a tune, "Down at the Old Watergate." But it never made the Top Twenty.

During the committee hearings, Hungate said he didn't propose to get involved in discussing possible abuses of past presidents. "I wouldn't want to say anything bad about President Eisenhower. We were in the Army together," he said.

That was a good way of putting it. Hungate joined the Army as a private in 1943 and rose through the ranks to be discharged in 1946 as a private first class. But a lot of people had the same problem and, after all, they did serve with Ike.

Move started to revive farm-labor party

MADISON — The most intriguing utterance in Wisconsin politics lately may well be the joint communique of the heads of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO, the Farmers Union and the National Farmers Organization state divisions that there is a movement underway to revive the often suggested organization of a state Farm Labor party.

The disclosure was made by John Schmitt, of the biggest state labor union association, Gilbert Rhode, the long-time head of the Farmers Union, and Steve Pavich, president of the Wisconsin branch of the aggressive NFO.

They said little in elaboration. Yet they took the trouble to assert publicly that such a formal alliance as an independent vehicle under law for the presentation of political candidates is a "distinct possibility," as affirmed by the news sheet published by Schmitt's Milwaukee headquarters.

What makes the suggestion provocative, without regard to its merits or practicability, is that it appears to suggest somehow a dissatisfaction with the Democratic party as a liberal action vehicle, at a time when it has attained its greatest success in Wisconsin history and is probably favored to continue in power in the state this year by virtually all disinterested students of Wisconsin political affairs.

It comes at a time when the Democrats are within a hairline of controlling securely the lawmaking processes in the state, and when the Schmitt political action office is limiting its endorsements, and its funding support, to Democratic candidates for state offices and Congress without exception.

Lately the organized farmer demands in the Capitol are also being acknowledged and accommodated without serious resistance from the Democrats now holding office. The number of Democrats getting endorsements and backing from the AFL-CIO for having records of perfect compliance with labor legislative goals was never greater. So confident has organized labor become that it is involved in contests for Democratic nominations, as well as competition between nominees of the parties.

What could a formal "Farm-Labor" title for the party these interests already support and to a large degree can control do in legislation or in policy concessions in state administrative branches that cannot be achieved through the Democratic party? Because the farm-labor coalition as a component of the Democratic Wisconsin vote base is now allied with other groups, such as the liberal intellectuals, the special interest social action causes, the activists in consumer affairs, and environmental concerns, among others, it might be speculated that the "Farm-Labor" designation might not be as attractive as "Democratic." Thus the suggestion tantalizes.

The sideline remembers, moreover, that there have been still-born propositions on this theme before. Four years ago, following the decisive election of Gov. Patrick Lucey and the striking Democratic gains in the legislature, a ranking figure of good liberal credentials told this reporter in confidence that there was underway a movement to establish a Farm-Labor party. Nothing happened. Is it possible that there were those who wanted to remind the new Democratic state administration, exultant about its triumph, of the logistics of its situation?

A left of center party with a "Farm-Labor" label has been talked about for nearly half a century, as it briefly surfaced during the years of agrarian revolt in the last decades of the 19th Century. In the late 1930s, Phil LaFollette as boss of the Progressive party briefly flirted with the idea, mostly to lure to his standard the disciplined democratic Socialists of Milwaukee. But that faltered and died because he could not embrace the Socialist dogma that was useful in vote-heavy Milwaukee without offending allies elsewhere.

Harris doesn't have telephone secretary

I don't know how many people have telephoned me at the office over the years and have been taken aback at the sound of my dulcet voice answering the phone "in person."

This is considered more than a bit declass in American commercial life. In fact, the higher one goes in the corporate structure, the more secretaries one is given to filter out the unwelcome or trivial calls.

Not so in England, for instance, where the president of the biggest bank may pick up his own phone and answer it himself without being publicly dishonored and forced to return the key to the executive washroom.

Answering one's own phone is not only human and personal—in the long run, it usually saves time. My secretary has more important things to do than answer the phone—reply to letters, look up material, straighten out my miserable files, keep my lecture schedules up to date, and remind me of dentist appointments, unpaid bills, and anniversaries.

I can handle callers much more expeditiously than any secretary could. Their requests are answered either "Yes" or "No" on the spot; the information they want is provided, if I have it; their complaints are accepted with at least surface courtesy; and their compliments can turn a gloomy day into a bearable one.

I am convinced that the secretarial barrier creates an enormous amount of ill will for business firms. Not that secretaries should be abolished—heaven forbid—but there is nothing to prevent an able-bodied executive from picking up his receiver when the phone rings.

Yet I have seen men sitting four inches from their telephone permit it to ring a dozen times while their secretaries are obviously busy elsewhere—not because the men are engrossed in work, but because it would mean a dangerous loss of caste. Callers might get the idea that they were secretary-less, and possibly on the way down the ladder.

We are all engulfed in the huge impersonality of the modern business world. We privately complain about this when we try to get hold of someone in authority in another firm, but we stubbornly perpetuate it in our own.

And, contributing to the irritation and wasted time, there is the fact that many secretaries of important men take themselves more importantly than the men do—just as doormen of exclusive apartment buildings act haughtier than most of their tenants.

Secretaries are wonderful, and indispensable, creatures; but they are no substitute for personal contact, and their interposition on the phone only adds to the delay and frustration that are strangling us to death from 9 to 5.

French 'sound, light' show at Mt. Vernon for U.S. bicentennial

PARIS (AP) — President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing says France has given the United States a "sound and light" show for the Mt. Vernon home of George Washington to commemorate the U.S. bicentennial in 1976.

The "sound and light" show procedure was developed in France to add luster to its historic monuments. A programmed pattern of floodlights illuminates selected features of a building with dramatized commentary and sound effects played over a loud-speaker.

Basic shift in presidency seen

In a book by that name, Robert Sherrill labeled Lyndon Johnson as "The Accidental President" because of the way he assumed office on the death of John F. Kennedy. What on earth does this make Gerald Ford?

Ford has become the first President not to reach national office by election, and he is obliged to pick a Vice President whose links to the electorate will be even more indirect. While some may pass this off as a fluke, my guess is that the U.S. political system is already in the midst of little-appreciated but far-reaching changes.

Basic shift coming?

Over the last century and a half, the independent power of the Presidency has undergone a steady increase, and a basic shift may be in the works. There was a time, back in the decades before the Civil War, when the Presidency was such a tenuous power base that no incumbent was even able to secure renomination. Who remembers much about John Tyler, James Polk, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan? (When I was at law school, "Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan" served as the made-up name of a New York law firm used to con anxious-to-please college girls!) By the late 19th Century, though, most Presidents were able to win renomination.

Then by the early 20th Century, renomination was a rule of thumb, and beginning with Franklin D. Roosevelt, each U.S. President has been re-elected. Indeed, the power of national office has overflowed into the Vice Presidency, recently an automatic waiting-room for the Presidency. Since the Nineteen-Fifties, all of our Vice Presidents have gone on to become Presidents, Presidential nominees or at least front-running hopefuls. The most recent, of course, is Gerald Ford.

None of this power really depends on the participation of the electorate. The popular mandate of 1852 didn't fortify Franklin Pierce (or his Vice President, William R. King) and the lack of one may not matter much to Gerald Ford or his Vice President. It's the prominence and political muscle of the 20th Century office that makes the difference.

Indeed, the steady evolution of Presidential power from pre-Civil War impotence to the runaway White House of Richard Nixon is one reason for the latter-day Rummynede of August, 1974. Independent White House political machinery — reaching from propaganda to private police — had simply become too strong.

Less independent

The net result, I think, will be a shift that retains the necessary 20th Century power of the Executive Branch but makes the President less politically independent. In contrast to the personal Presidencies a bit more along the lines of parliamentary regimes.

In his last days, Richard Nixon spoke of maintaining the power of the Presidency against "parliamentary system" inroads, but it is also arguable that only a quasi-parliamentary shift — the movement towards Cabinet and party responsibility epitomized by Gerald Ford — can make the Presidency truly effective and responsible. Thus, while Mr. Nixon may have been right in perceiving parliamentary trends, they may be just the ticket!

If the trend to Cabinet and party government can be maintained, then the split between Presidential and Congressional voting patterns may narrow and the nature of our quadrennial elections may change. Presidents may become more like prime ministers, responsible to the party and Cabinet and obliged to resign if they breach that responsibility or lose the confidence of the country.

Gerald Ford is the first President chosen by his party's Congressional and party Establishment (and then nominated by Richard Nixon) rather than elected by popular vote. I suspect he will not be the last, and this could be a useful and healthy development.

Looking back New firm to locate in Appleton

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Post, Aug. 6, 1874.

Messrs. Carr & Alexander, lately from Wooster, Ohio, have come to Appleton and propose to open a general supply store as soon as suitable accommodations can be had.

They will wholesale and retail flour, feed, coal, salt and various other classes of products which come in this range. They expect to be able to commence business in the course of a few days. Their enterprise will serve as a great convenience to the public and cannot help but be profitable.

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Aug. 10, 1949.

A building permit was issued today by Appleton Building Inspector Walter Bogan for the construction of the $145,000 art center at Lawrence College.

Royalty at the Fremont water show was crowned in a special ceremony King and queen of the festival were Lyle Sherburne and Patricia Johnson. Robert Krabben was made a prince and Laraine Smith a princess. Taking part in the ceremony were Marla M. Henschel, John Smith, David Kinsman and Donna Lind.

Tom Trettin Day was proclaimed in Kaukauna by the city's mayor in honor of the youngster who won the Kaukauna Jaycee's Soap Box Derby. He was to leave for Akron and the national competition so a rally was planned for that night in Kaukauna High School as a community send-off.

10 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Aug. 12, 1964.

Robert Parnell, Appleton, was elected president of Mow-Ski-Tow Hill Ski Club Inc. with George Kubisak, New London, named vice president and Fred Heinemann, Appleton, recording secretary. Jerry Kavaney, Appleton, was to assume the post of corresponding secretary. Vincent Derscheid, treasurer, and Mrs. James Grunwaldt, assistant treasurer.

Representing McKinley School playground in the Appleton Recreation Department's End-of-Summer Talent Show were Therese Jentz, Cathy Heinrich, Carla Maloney and Katie Jo Lundeen.

The three winners in the summer reading program at Appleton Public Library were Tom Pauli, Greg Williamson and Steven Dercks. They received awards at a special program at the Viking Theater.

Potomac Fever

Ford praises Nixon for "one of the greatest personal sacrifices for the country." It wasn't easy to give up a monarchy.

The state Department insists Ambassador Martin still works for us. He's only moonlighting for South Vietnam.

Rockefeller doesn't think age will affect his bid for the VP. He is still agile enough to straddle any issue.

It's doubtful that Nixon will renew his subscription to the Washington Post.

To make a national impact, Reagan may ride with Evel Knievel on his motorcycle jump over the Snake River Canyon.
